

TROOPERS WHO REFUSED TO TAKE OATH STILL IN SERVICE RULES COURT

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The United States circuit court of appeals ruled today that members of the state militia who still in service for federal military purposes notwithstanding their failure to take the oath under the national defense act of last June. This decision reverses an order of the federal district court. The case was considered a test of the application of the new law upon which disposition of similar cases in other states will depend.

The court's opinion, from which Judge Putnam dissented, vacated a decree to the lower court under which Alexander M. Emerson and Alfred P. Lowell, cavalrymen, were released from military custody. Directions were given in each instance that the trooper be returned to the military authorities from whom he was taken. The cases of Emerson, who refused to take the new oath and of Lowell, who assented to it, were considered together.

LOWELL WOMAN
GETS AN AWARD
FROM JURY

Mrs. Martha M. Gray of this city was awarded damages of $129.16 in her suit against Ray S. Frost, manager of the local branch of the Boston Ice Cream Co., which was heard by a jury in the civil session of superior court yesterday. The verdict was opened at the resumption of court this morning.

Mrs. Gray sued for personal injuries sustained when she was thrown from a sleigh on Westford street as a result of a collision with an automobile owned by the defendant.

The trial of the suit of Gilbert D. Jacques, administrator, vs. the Boston & Maine railroad, an action of tort for $10,000, was begun this morning. The jury was impaneled and immediately sent with court officers and the attorneys to the railroad tracks off Congress street, where a view was taken of a car that was involved in the accident from which the suit resulted.

Qua, Howard and Rogers represented the plaintiff and Trull and Wier the defense.

The plaintiff is the administrator of the estate of Lester I. Jacques, late of Nashua, N. H., who was killed on April 13, 1916, while employed as a section hand by the Boston & Maine railroad. The younger Jacques was riding in a motor car used by section crews in place of the old hand cars. It is claimed that a bar fell from the rear of the car onto the rails, throwing the vehicle off the track.

Jacques was hurled into a ditch and landed on his head, sustaining a fracture of the skull. Four other men on the car were injured, but not seriously.

Gilbert Jacques, father of the deceased and administrator of the estate, is suing for $10,000 in behalf of his wife, Angie A. Following the return of the jury the witnesses for the plaintiff were heard.

GREEKS APPEAL TO
U. S. FOR PROTECTION
AGAINST ENTENTE

ATHENS, Oct. 17, via London, Oct. 18.—After the demonstration here against the entente allies, during which a procession of several thousand persons marched to the American legation and protested against the handing of French marines, a delegation of six persons called at the American legation and presented resolutions asking the sympathy and protection of the United States against the encroachments of the entente powers. The spokesman said in English in presenting the resolution:

"Henry Clay's speech in regard to Greece's struggle for liberty, as well as one by Daniel Webster, said the struggle would have been made meaningless if the liberties of Greece had been subsequently lost."

The American minister, Garrett D. Duggan, promised to forward the petition to Washington.

Three hundred French marines were transferred today from the municipal theatre to the Zappeion exposition building within 400 yards of the king's palace. They marched through the streets with bayonets fixed and trumpets blowing, accompanied by moving picture apparatus and an automobile with Franco-Greek secret police. The front of the larger palace structure is occupied by Prince Andrew and Princess Alice.

Midway on their march the French contingent met three companies of sailors from the former Greek fleet and who have now been formed into infantry organizations. Their trumpets were also sounding and they made quite as impressive an appearance as the French with the added picturesque touch of the swinging right arm peculiar to Greek troops on the march.

When the squads met, the Greeks turned down another street, leaving the stadium street to the French.

LONDON STREET IN RUINS
AFTER RAID; 400 KILLED

BERLIN, Oct. 18, by wireless to Sayville.—Eye witnesses of the Zeppelin attack on England on Sept. 23, report, according to the Overseas News agency, that bombs hit the Grimby barracks, killing more than 400 soldiers and that about 60 men were killed on board a cruiser which was hit by a bomb. It is said that Regent street, London, was for the most part laid in ruins.

"Eye witnesses state that more than 100 buildings were badly damaged, some of them being completely wrecked," says the news agency. "The damage is estimated at more than £2,000,000. Regent street, London, which is the main artery of commerce, was for the most part laid in ruins. In a southern suburb of London an ammunition factory was blown up."

"In Liverpool a bridge and track were damaged so badly that it will be impossible to use them for a long time. Several benzole tanks near the Thames were damaged."

"The Grimby barracks were hit and more than 400 soldiers were killed. A Zeppelin cruiser with four funnels which was anchored in the Humber was hit by a bomb and about 60 men were killed. Two other warships were damaged."

"I lived within a few blocks of Regent street until Oct. 5. No building on Regent street was even struck. There was no damage whatever in the Metropolitan district except at Epsom."

BRITISH WON'T RELEASE
LOWELL YOUNG MAN

Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society has received a letter from Leo Joseph Rousseau, a Lowell boy connected with the Canadian army, and who is at present located at Liverpool, Eng., asking assistance in establishing his identity as an American citizen, for the young man states he is unable to convince the British authorities that he is an American.

The Rousseau case is one of many of its kind, which have recently been brought to the attention of the American authorities and in which what is known as "dual citizenship" is involved and this particular case of Rousseau was brought to the attention of Congressman Rogers some time last April but, despite the efforts of the congressman, it has been impossible to show to Great Britain that Rousseau is an American citizen for, although the young man was born in this city, he is of Canadian parents, for his father never became naturalized, and accordingly England claims Leo Joseph as one of her subjects.

Leo Joseph Rousseau was born in this city and about two years ago he enlisted in the Canadian army and was sent abroad to fight in the trenches under the British colors. Last April the boy got homesick and wrote to his mother, Mrs. Joseph Rousseau of 137 Cumberland road, and asked her to do all in her power to obtain his release. The mother took the matter up with Congressman Rogers, who on April 27 of the present year sent a certificate of the record of birth of the boy to Robert Lansing, secretary of state, the certificate being accompanied by a money order for the transport of the boy to this country. On May 2 the congressman received a letter from the secretary of state in which was the following paragraph:

"It is noted from the birth certificate which accompanied your letter that the father of young Rousseau was born in Canada. In order to comply with the British requirements it will be necessary to furnish the naturalization certificate of the father of this soldier or such other proof of American citizenship as would be given full credence in the courts of the United States."

Navier Delisle, secretary to the congressman, communicated with the mother of the boy, who stated that the father, to her knowledge, was never naturalized. Then the congressman got in touch with Secretary Lansing with the result that the case was submitted to the American consul general at London, who in reply sent the following letter, dated May 23:

"I have the honor to say in this connection that the department can offer no assurance that young Rousseau's release can be obtained in view of the disinclination of the British government to consider application for the discharge of minor American citizens unless proof of the American citizenship of the father of the soldier is furnished in every case."

An appeal was later made to the British authorities by the American consul general at London for the release of the boy as a matter of courtesy on the ground of the boy's youth and also for the fact that he was his aged mother's only support, and on June 15 the American consul general reported that the case had been submitted to the British admiralty for consideration, and nothing favorable to the boy's release has been heard since.

The heirs-at-law of Miss Morse, two cousins, petitioned the probate court for the disallowance of the will on the grounds of undue influence. Francis M. Qua appeared for the will and D. J. Donahue for the contestants.

EUROPEAN WAR NEWS
SANGUINARY FIGHTING

Official announcements today from the entente side report an effective stand by the Rumanians against Gen. von Falkenhayn's armies along the Transylvanian border and the sanguinary repulse by the French of heavy German assaults on the new French positions in Sally-Saillissol, on the Somme front.

Virtual Deadlock
The approach of the cold season is accompanied by no diminution in activity in most of the European battle areas. Some of them, indeed, the effort of the belligerents apparently are being redoubled. This seems notably true along the eastern front, from Valmyria to Rumania, whence continuous fighting is reported, with a virtual deadlock the result so far.

Further south, the attempt of the central powers to drive a wedge between the Russians and Rumanians near Dorna Watra in the southern Carpathians, is in an uncertain stage. Berlin has reported the capture of some heights, but Petrograd claims the repulse of all the Teutonic attacks.

On Transylvanian Border
Temporarily at least the tide of battle apparently has changed along the Transylvanian border. Berlin has conceded the stiffening of the Rumanian resistance along this front and Bucharest advises today that a successful stand and at one point at least, in the Predeal region, south of Kronstadt are pushing Gen. von Falkenhayn's armies back. From the Rumanian viewpoint all the military news is reassuring, it is declared.

Russians Help Rumanians
Russian troops in force are reported helping the Rumanians to defend the passes from Transylvania into their territory.

On the Somme front German attacks were delivered against the French line both north and south of the Somme. Three assaults by the Germans upon the French in Sally-Saillissol, are declared by Paris to have been repulsed with heavy losses to the Germans, who also were repulsed after they had gained a footing in a French first line trench near Bery-en-Santerre, south of the river.

British Advance
On the British front in the Somme region, progress by Gen. Haig's forces between the Albert-Bapaume road and Lesbouffes, is reported.

BERLIN REPORTS FRENCH ATTACKS ALONG SOMME REPULSED

BERLIN, Oct. 18, (3 p. m.)—French attacks in the region of Morval and Rancourt, north of the river Somme, were repulsed yesterday after hard fighting, says the official statement issued.

DESERTED BRIDE MAINE TOWN IS WEDS WEALTHY WIPED OUT FARMER BY FIRE

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—As a result of advertising for a husband four months ago, Mrs. Viola A. May became engaged to a man who fled from town on the day that had been named for the wedding, leaving Mrs. May waiting at the church. But this devotion was not without compensation, for the story, published in various newspapers, found its way to Robert J. Bradley, Maine town, Vt. It excited his interest, caused him to write to her, then to visit her finally to marry her, and last night Mrs. Bradley set off for Moretown to join the new woman and her bride.

Bradley, who is a wealthy farmer, married Mrs. May in West Boston last Saturday evening. The bride, who had been living at 5 Glenview street, Roxbury, had some packing to do, and many good-bys to say to friends. But Bradley had business interests which made it necessary for him to return home at once. Mrs. Bradley completed her preparations for the journey yesterday morning and set out for Vermont last night.

"I am the happiest woman in the world," she explained to friends before departing. "I have had my troubles, but they are all ended now."

Four months ago she advertised in the newspapers for a husband. One man answered. He said he wanted a wife who could cook, and Mrs. May invited him to come to her home for a trial feast. He feasted to his heart's content for two weeks. Then on the day the two were to be married, the man departed without a farewell.

The story of the woman's misfortune was reported in the newspapers. It was in the little town of Moretown, Vt. Robert Bradley, a widower, read it. He was sympathetic and lonely.

So he sent an engagement ring and $50 to Mrs. May, telling her that if she would place her faith in him she would not be left waiting at the church. The friendship by mail progressed rapidly, and last Thursday Bradley left his farm and came to Boston.

First he bought the wedding ring. Then he purchased the wedding gown, and he gave his bride a new set of false teeth. The marriage took place at 3 o'clock Saturday evening in the home of James Fraser, 6 Middle street, East Boston. Justice of the Peace Fraser performed the ceremony, and a score of friends joined in the celebration which lasted until midnight.

GORHAM, Me., Oct. 15.—Nearly every building in the little village of White Rock was destroyed by fire which started in a grocery store last night. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

Among the burned structures were the Maine Central railroad station, occupying a part of the Marshall Street grocery store building where the flames were first discovered; the John Martin grocery store, grain mill and dwelling; the farmers' co-operative grain mill and the postoffice. As the village has no fire fighting apparatus and a high wind was blowing, the residents were unable to check the fire.

HAVERHILL MEN APPEAL FROM COURT ORDER

SALFORD, Oct. 15.—Notice of an appeal from the order of Judge Quinn of the superior court refusing a motion to quash indictments against Mayor Albert L. Bartlett and other members of Haverhill city council became known today. The papers were filed by counsel for the city officials like yesterday after the court had sustained the indictments charging failure to suppress a riot at Haverhill on the night of April 3. As a result of the appeal, it is expected the cases will not come to trial for several months.

PRaises WORK OF RED CROSS ON BORDER

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Captain Edward A. Hushford of the Massachusetts National Guard medical corps, who returned yesterday from duty on the Mexican border with Battery A, urged Boston people to join the American Red Cross to show their appreciation of the efforts of the organization to better conditions for troops on the border.

"Tell them to speed up and join the Red Cross now," he said. "If they want to show any appreciation for what the American Red Cross has been doing for the comfort of the soldiers who left home to go with the flag to the border, I don't believe there is a military man who would not lend all his support and commendation to the Red Cross for its work in both peace and war."

"If there had been a real war we couldn't have done it without the Red Cross aid. It is one of the important forms of preparedness. The home nursing activities of the Red Cross in training nurses in first aid and the making and storing of hospital supplies is of first importance."

"Even more necessary is the work of the Red Cross in civilian relief during times of great disaster. These disasters come more often than war and with much less opportunity for warning and preparation."

Speaking of the Greater Boston campaign for new membership he declared, "Boston must wake up if it wants to equal the records of other great cities. If Boston doesn't want to fall down in this great movement, the people must respond to the call of the campaign and join the Red Cross now."

"I am going to help push the campaign myself. I hadn't been in Boston long enough to get the New Mexican dust from my clothes when Chairman Joy and Executive Secretary Nuttall got in touch with me with a request that I lend my assistance to the work."

Mayor Child presided yesterday at a Red Cross meeting at the Newton city hall. More than 500 new members were pledged at the close of the session.

Radcliffe, Harvard, Tufts and many other schools have joined the campaign work and named student and faculty committees. Fraternity houses and college newspaper offices have opened enrollment stations.

WOMEN'S ASSO. ENTERTAINED

Papers were read by Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Hoyt and Mrs. Mack and a dialogue was given by Miss Mary Lamson and Miss Helen Radnor, who were dressed in costume to represent the Greek and Roman churches. An informal reception to Mr. and Mrs. Everett followed the program. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a prolonged social hour enjoyed.

SAYS JAPANESE WANT TO SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT PRESERVE FRIENDLY RELATIONS WITH U. S. IN IRELAND CRITICIZED BY JOHN REDMOND

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 18.—Japanese people feel that the best interests of their country depend on the preservation of friendly relations with the United States, the Rev. H. St. George Tucker, bishop of Kyoto, told delegates to the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church today. Bishop Tucker spoke at a joint session of two houses, reviewing the scope and methods of the church's foreign mission work.

"The only possible cause of trouble," Bishop Tucker continued, "would be in a conviction on the part of the Japanese that they are being unjustly discriminated against and their national honor involved. Even in regard to the question of the immigration of Japanese into this country the Japanese government has shown willingness to meet the wishes of the United States. It has undertaken to prevent further emigration of Japanese to America and statistics show that in the past few years they carried out this agreement."

Bishop Tucker asserted that occidental life and thought is penetrating the countries of the Orient in an ever increasing volume and said the purpose of Christianity there is to see that the peoples receive not only the materialistic and intellectual side of our civilization but also its idealistic side.

Speaking of China, Bishop Tucker declared that Christian missionaries in that country have done much to ameliorate social conditions by building hospitals, establishing medical schools and encouraging the Chinese to study modern medical methods.

"There seems to be in this country," said the bishop, "a feeling that the development of Japanese interests in China constitutes a peril to the United States. I do not feel this to be the case, and certainly as the natives become Christians the peril will be diminished."

Today's joint session, over which the Rev. F. H. Graves, bishop of Shanghai, presided, was devoted to a conference on "What Is This Church Trying to Do in Her Work Abroad?"

Announcement was made that a resolution had been adopted by the house of bishops and concurred in by the house of deputies, providing for the appointment of a commission "to promote the spread of the desire for peace in the world and international friendship and to relate their operations to the world alliance for promoting international friendship through the churches."

The house of deputies also informed the house of bishops that it had received a request from Hyslop Wolcott, vicar-general of Worcester, England, asking for an expression of opinion as to when the next Lambeth conference could be held, and that they had fixed 1919 as a possible date.

Members of leaders of the Church of England and has been postponed because of the war.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The Irish question was again brought to the fore in the house of commons today with the introduction by John Redmond of a resolution criticizing the system of government of the island. The resolution reads:

"That the system of government at present maintained in Ireland is inconsistent with the principles for which the allies are fighting in Europe, and is or has been mainly responsible for the recent unhappy events and for the present state of feeling in that country."

Since Mr. Redmond gave notice of his intention to attack the government, the Irish leaders have held several conferences with Baron Wimborne, lord lieutenant of Ireland, but these probably had more to do with the suggestion of extension of conscription to Ireland.

Having regard for the importance of the United Kingdom and Ireland combining with the rest of the empire in presenting a united front to the enemy, it is not desirable at the present time to discuss controversial matters of domestic politics."

NO U. S. STATEMENT ON RAID OF THE U-53

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The United States will not feel called upon to make public any statement on the raid of the U-53 or the submarine situation in general, it was learned authoritatively today, as a consequence of the statement in parliament by Viscount Grey, British secretary of state for foreign affairs, that his government would not make any official representations to this country until such announcement is made here.

This government, it was said, would not feel itself called upon to make a statement to the allies about German belligerent operations off the American coast, than it would report to Germany the recent visit of the French cruiser Admiral Aube to an American port or other allied operations on this side of the Atlantic.

Information probably would be supplied, however, if requested.

At present, the state department is making a study of the whole submarine situation but is not now considering the issuance of general regulations such as have been adopted by small European countries which have the question before them.

Complete information is now in the hands of the department as to the sinking of the five ships off the New England coast by the U-53, but no announcement is expected before the details are carefully reviewed. Rear Admiral Knight at Newport has sent on statements of the ship captains and of American naval officers on the scene with their opinions as to the precautions taken for the safety of passengers.

The only phase of the situation where complete information is lacking is as to what information the submarine captain may have secured when in Newport harbor. This is still being investigated, especially in view of Viscount Grey's intimation that it might be made a basis of claim against this country. In a similar case, Spain has been pressed for damages by France for information gained by a U-boat at Cartagena which resulted in the loss of French ships immediately after the vessel left port.

M'ADOO SAYS WALL ST. DOMINATED THE G. O. P.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Praise for President Wilson's diplomatic and legislative achievements and charges that "Wall street has dominated the republican party" and that victory for that party next month would endanger the country's prosperity, were voiced here today by William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, before a noon political meeting.

"The American people are being asked to put in the peace and prosperity of the country is now enjoying under President Wilson by turning their government over to the inexperienced Mr. Hughes and the organized band of incompatible elements which are supporting him," said Mr. McAdoo.

"For two months they have condemned every act of the democratic administration in the most unfair and untruthful manner but the American people are still without a definite answer from Mr. Hughes as to what they will do with the government if they get possession of it. The only definite thing we have had during the campaign came from Col. Roosevelt, who said at Battle Creek discussing the Lusitania: 'You ask me what I would have done. I would have seized every interested German ship.'"

Mr. McAdoo then quoted Germany's declaration of war on Portugal because of seizures of German ships by that country and added: "Mr. Roosevelt's action would have resulted in war between the United States and Germany. And now comes Mr. Hughes and admits, as far as he is ever definite, his accord with the bellicose attitude of Mr. Roosevelt. This is shown by his reply at Louisville to the question as to what he would have done in the Lusitania case. He said, in substance, that he would have threatened the Kaiser so effectively that the Lusitania would never have been sunk. This is characteristic of Mr. Hughes. He is characterized by evasion, for Mr. McAdoo said that the democratic administration had destroyed the system by which the reserve money of the banks of the country was concentrated principally in New York city. He believed that Mr. Hughes, if elected, intends to repeal the federal reserve act and establish a central bank because the republican party has always stood for Wall street and a central bank."

The secretary said that if Mr. Hughes "stands by his party platform he must either repeal or substitute something for the federal reserve act. He argued that the 'Roosevelt panic of 1907' the worst in our history, is conclusive proof of republican incompetence" and added that our country "vile, rich, unimpaired and highly developed" need fear nothing from "the competition of stricken and broken Europe" after the war.

A stay of an hour and a quarter here to switch the train from one road to another was necessary.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION AGAINST THE EXTENTE IN ATHENS

LONDON, Oct. 18.—With the occupation of Athens and Piraeus by marines from the warships of the entente allies, a tense situation has arisen in Athens. Great crowds of royalists have paraded the streets of the Greek capital, cheering the king and cordons of Greek troops and marines have been thrown about the railway stations, city hall and other points occupied by the entente forces to prevent clashes between them and the royalists. An unofficial despatch says Admiral D. Fountoulas was hissed by the throngs in the streets of Athens and that a detachment of French sailors was driven back by the hostile crowd.

King Constantine, in a speech to the officers of his fleet, told them he would stand by them no matter what consequences might follow their loyalty to Greece.

URGE THAT NEW HAVEN BE PERMITTED TO KEEP LINES

SEEK TO CONTINUE STOCK OWNERSHIP AND SERVICE OF N. E. STEAMSHIP CO.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The New Haven railroad and the Boston and Providence chambers of commerce and approximately 80 large New England manufacturing concerns filed briefs today urging that the New Haven be permitted to continue stock ownership and service of the New England Steamship Co. and other Long Island Sound steamship lines.

The New Haven's petition and brief set forth that the transportation needs of New England justify the operation despite the provisions of the Panama Canal act which prohibits joint ownership of competing rail and water lines.

The New England manufacturers in their brief say that "while they have differed bitterly on other transportation questions, they are a practical unanimity in favor of the retention of the New Haven line and the practically unanimous voice of New England shippers protests against the disjuncting of a satisfactory service."

1917 INDIAN MOTOR CYCLE ARRIVES HERE

MANY IMPROVEMENTS ON NEW MODEL—GOOD WEATHER FOR AUTO TRIPS

After careful waiting the 1917 Indian motorcycle has arrived at the H. Bacheelder, Ltd., the local agency. This new model shows many improvements and refinements. New and graceful lines as well as increased power and speed are quite obvious. Among the other features are the new and enlarged gasoline tank with a larger capacity, the triple stem forks, which double the strength, the webbed vanadium steel frame, the lengthened gear shift lever which dispenses with any lost motion in gear-shifting, and the cradle spring frame which makes riding a great comfort. A few touches of black stripings do away with the too conventional plain red, and make neat paneling which also adorns the appearance. There is also another color which the buyer may choose, that of olive drab with black and gold stripings. It is claimed to be a most decided improvement over any heretofore attempted designs in the manufacture of motorcycles.

Every owner of a car should go somewhere at this time of the year even more than at any other season, and go as far as time will let him. And when riding in the country think your way through don't be fooled and rush past the beauties of nature and the works of man. Every foot of land that you will pass once belonged to the Indians, to wilderness and desolation. Nature is now more beautiful than ever; do all that you can to see it, realize that it is yours, get acquainted with it. You'll never regret the time thus spent.

The Red Arrow Garage has assumed a novel title for the establishment, that of "A Department Garage." Yes, it does sound odd, yet it signifies completeness. Now one may go to this garage with the assurance of being properly catered to. Arthur Bourke feels now as if he can take care of any job that is put up to him, and has this one aim of satisfaction at all times in view. The sign of "Red Arrow" is his trade mark and by-word.

Napoleon Blouet continues with his new auto livery service for all occasions, social or business, using of course his Hudson Six car.

During the past year the reader type of car has gradually been changed from two passenger to three and four-passenger capacity, and this trend is noticeable in the new come models which are now being brought out.

The growing demand for a roadster type motor with carrying capacity of four has prompted the design of the many new models. In some, two passengers are comfortably accommodated on a large main seat. There comes a driver's seat slightly advanced. In addition, the fourth seat, a conventional folding chair is close to the body when not in use or swings out as needed. Again, in others there are two divided seats for driver and companion, in back of which is a double seat which completes the changing-four effect.

If automobile manufacturers need savings instead of electric systems to start their cars, they would have to use a spring weighing 1600 pounds to obtain the same power as is contained in a battery weighing only one pound. If a tank of gas or air were used, the tank would have to weigh 400 pounds or it could not deliver the same power as a 12-ounce battery.

AUTOMOBILE QUESTION BOX

NOTE—In these columns every Wednesday we will give expert advice to motorists on how to repair and operate their machines. Automobile readers of THE SUN are invited to send in questions or problems they may wish to have answered. Such questions will receive attention in due time. Address all communications: Automobile Editor, Sun, Lowell, Mass. Communications must bear the signature and address of the sender, though not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Motoring Department, The Sun—The writer purchased a rebuilt 1915 Ford touring car about two weeks ago. While out riding the driver stalled the engine, and upon trying to crank same found it to be in gear—that is, the whole car moved forward when the crank was turned. This was remedied at the time by screwing down the clutch lever screw that bears upon the cam operated by the emergency lever. However, it was necessary to remove the lock nut from this screw in order to screw it down sufficiently to release the clutch. The other day the same thing occurred, but screwing down the clutch lever screw does not seem to help matters. If you will advise through your column what the trouble is I shall greatly appreciate the favor.

Ans. The solution to your problem is in the clutch lever screw. You may have screwed it down too far. Experiment with it until you get it right. If the screw is badly worn get a new one and try again. If you have had to remove the lock nut it may be placed on the lower end of the screw.

Motoring Department, The Sun—I have a 1913 four-passenger car with springs evidently designed for a few trucks. The rear springs are of the ordinary three-quarter style with six leaves to the spring two inches wide, the total thickness of which immediately over the axle is 1 1/2 inches. There is little or no flexibility to them with only the driver riding and only when there are six or seven passengers crowded into the car do the springs respond to a rough piece of road. Would it be practicable to take out a leaf of spring? If so, which would you advise, the shortest or one of the middle length, the long ones on bottom half-length ones on top, or both? Would it help to take springs apart and clean and lubricate them?

Ans. Your trouble is partly stiff spring and partly dry spring. Remove rust from each leaf and cover thoroughly with graphite grease. Replace, leaving out shortest leaf. If this is not sufficient remove middle leaf. It would not be advisable to weaken the spring further, as there would be danger of breakage when car is filled with passengers.

Motoring Department, The Sun—Can a person drive a car for owner, provided it is not for hire, and does insurance cover same if owner is not in car, car being insured in full?

Ans. According to New York auto law any friend of the owner, 18 years or over, may drive the car with the owner's permission, if he does not do so for hire, whether the owner is with him or not. Unless it is distinctly stated in the insurance policy the insurance on the car does not cover any and every person driving it.

Motoring Department, The Sun—Will you please let me know of some remedy to waterproof a gray mohair top of an Overland car without changing the color, as some leakers very badly? Ans. Inquire at any large supply store for the dressing you require. If in doubt about it try it on some inconspicuous part of the top. We cannot recommend any special article on the market.

Motoring Department, The Sun—Why is the two-cycle engine no longer used on automobiles? If it is successful as a boat engine why not as an auto engine?

Ans. The two-cycle engine does not have the range of speed of the four-cycle engine. This is not a detriment in a boat, where one speed is all that is needed. But an automobile must be run at different speeds merely by operating the throttle. As the four-cycle engine speeds up it gains power. The two-cycle engine is best and strongest at low speed. As it speeds up too far it begins to miss explosions. Many attempts have been made to remedy the defect, but none have attained any great success.

Motoring Department, The Sun—Recently you advised testing compression by opening all compression valves except one and cranking motor. How can I locate the weak cylinder on a Ford motor, which has no compression cocks?

Ans. Crank motor at least two revolutions and note if one or more cylinders are weak. Remove spark plug of first cylinder and crank again two revolutions. If three cylinders are strong trouble is in first cylinder. If one is still weak replace first plug, remove next one and crank again. When remaining cylinders are strong you have removed plug from weak cylinders.

Motoring Department, The Sun—My car is equipped with demountable rims. Some people claim that the wheel should be jacked up before removing rim, and others that wheel should be left on the ground. Please tell me what is best to do when changing rims.

Ans. You evidently refer to loosening the bolts, as it would be impossible to change rims with the wheel on the ground. It is best to loosen the bolts before jacking up the wheel, as the weight of the car twists the rim slightly and so frees it from any rust which may tend to hold it to the wheel. The wheel must then be jacked up in order to remove the rim. Always put graphite grease on places where wheel rim and demountable rim touch each other.

Motoring Department, The Sun—There is a sound like a squeak in my motor. It is not a knock, but sounds like one dry surface rubbing against another. The motor is hard to crank, but does not seem to have lost any power. An early explanation would be appreciated as I have not dared to run the car since the noise developed.

Ans. The noise is due to lack of oil on cylinder walls. Determine which cylinder it is if possible, by listening, but this is not important. Remove valve cap or spark plug, set piston nearly at top of stroke and inject oil around edge of piston. Crank engine and noise should have disappeared. The usual way is to pour half a teaspoon of oil into each cylinder through the relief valve. This results in carbonizing the cylinders, plugs, and valves, besides leaving a trail of smoke after the car, and so is not to be recommended. Be sure to keep the oil at the right level in the crank case.

Motoring Department, The Sun—One of my friends has a set of auxiliary spark caps on his car. They are set on the dash where they can be watched so as to tell if any cylinders are missing explosions or not. It is claimed that they make a better spark. If they are so good why are most cars not equipped with them?

Ans. They do intensify the spark slightly, but present systems give as hot a spark as is needed. They do not bore a magneto system, as they add too much resistance to the circuit and so are apt to cause misfiring or bad sparks. Using such a set of caps adds to the complications of the wiring, and there are other ways of telling when a cylinder is missing explosions.

Motoring Department, The Sun—I had occasion to take out the distributor of my magento the other day and noticed that one of the small carbon brushes was missing. Apparently the motor runs with full power and the corresponding cylinder does not seem to be missing explosions. If there is no difference in the results what harm will it do to have one or more brushes missing? If it makes a gap in the distributor will not one gap intensify the others?

Ans. If the cylinder does not miss explosions it is because the spring makes contact with the distributor arm or segment. This will burn away or break and the engine will miss explosions. If there is any gap in the distributor it will be too great for spark to jump when engine is running slowly, as the magnet does not then generate much current. The spark plug gap is set small on this account, and an additional gap in the distributor adds too much resistance. So replace brush as soon as possible. Also see answer to T. K. in this column.

HINTS

"Do not fasten chains too tightly nor to a spoke." Many a tire has been ruined by disregarding this advice. If a chain can creep it will wear the tire evenly. If it is fastened so that it cannot creep the cross links wear in one place and the shoe is damaged.

It has been well said that there is one set of bearing surfaces on a car which should never be oiled—the brakes. This is not strictly true, as a squeaking brake must be oiled, but with caution. Use kerosene oil in moderation until the squeak is stopped.

The traffic rule requiring cars to turn corners at four miles an hour is not merely to protect pedestrians, but is for your benefit as well. Turning corners at high speed strains tires, spokes, and axles, and may result in skidding, followed by an overturned car. So slow down and coast or go into second gear.

Do not wipe dust from your car with a cloth or piece of waste. It grinds the dirt into the varnish, and will ruin the finish in a short time. Have the car washed if you want the finish to last.

After you have ruined a few spark plugs by removing them with a monkey wrench you will get a socket wrench that just fits around the plug and protects the core from accident. It only costs a few cents and will pay for itself after it has been used a few times.

MISS LOBBAN TELLS OF HER EXPERIENCE ON TRIP FROM BERMUDA TO BOSTON

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Miss Edith E. Lobban of 191 Elliot street, Milton, returned home yesterday from a vacation trip to Bermuda that proved to be the most exciting of the several she has made.

Miss Lobban was one of the nearly 200 American tourists who arrived on steamship Bermuda Island. Telling of her trip back she said:

"We were told shortly after leaving port that the editors of the steamship had received a wireless from a British cruiser stating that a submarine was in the vicinity of our course. The captain not only steamed a zig-zag course that added some 200 miles to the ship's regular run and brought her to New York a day late, but caused the red-and-black smokestacks to be painted gray and all lights to be blanketed at night."

"We were also told that we were being conveyed by a British cruiser, although she was out of sight below the horizon. The tense feeling that existed throughout the ship was reflected in the highly nervous condition of most of the women passengers, and even some of the men had a 'compression fit' when a whale was sighted on day and the word 'U-boat' around that it was the German 'U-52'."

A DEPARTMENT GARAGE

Does this sound odd to you, Mr. Motorist? It may, unless you are already a Red Arrow customer, and do not know that we have combined under one roof, everything that a motorist can wish for. If he only stops for gasoline, oil or accessories, we can accommodate him. If he wishes to have a tire vulcanized, we have one of the best plants in the city for that purpose. If he wishes to have his car overhauled or repaired, eight expert workmen will do the work in the best possible manner. If he is having trouble with his radiator, fender or lamps, our new department will take care of him; and finally, if he wishes to store his car away, we have the largest space in the city devoted to that purpose.

OVERLAND PREVENTS DISASTER

Driving an Overland across the prairie at a 60-mile clip, overtaking an engine running wild, and driving the Overland at the same speed the engine was making, enabling the engineer to leap from the motor car to the engine, was the feat recently performed by Miss Ada Taylor, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Taylor of Tonio, Wash.

The engineer and brakemen on the Badger Lumber company's logging train were making a flying switch. The engineer slowed down his train and threw the switch himself. In passing over the frog the jaw threw the throttle wide open and the locomotive took the Northern Pacific main line with a full head of steam.

Both the engineer and the brakemen started in futile chase. Miss Taylor saw the wild engine as it passed her home, and saw the men trailing behind. Realizing the situation she ran for her Overland car, picked up the pursuing engineer, and started after the speeding locomotive. Overtaking it she kept pace with it until the engineer was once more master of the situation.

PITTS' SOUTH ENDS TO CELEBRATE Pitts' baseball team are going to have a grand winnow when they get together for an "all hands around" affair at Associate hall on Friday evening of this week. Success has been theirs throughout the season, and they now stand as the city champs and hold the trophies for same. They have many followers and supporters, and are, therefore, having this affair so that all may meet for a dance first. Being champions at their game they could not afford to have anything out of keeping, so the Honesy Boy Four will be on deck to furnish the merry vocal strains, in which game they are champs. Added to this, the popular players of Doyle's and Miner's orchestras will render the music for dancing. No doubt this will be quite a time for all who attend, and preparations are being made to accommodate a large crowd. This triple alliance of champions will stage the battle of music, merriment and dancing as a big time for all.

SURPRISING SUPPORT

Members of the Middlesex Women's club who gathered Monday afternoon to listen to a talk on current events by Mr. Edward H. Chandler, secretary of the Twentieth Century club, Boston, must have been a little surprised at his unqualified support of President Wilson. Last season, before a presidential campaign brought discussion to a head, Mr. Chandler was occasionally severe in his treatment of the president, but in the face of the bitter opposition he has been won over and he now uses his powers of reasoning and analysis and his convincing logic in support of the president. While avoiding the one-sided attitude of the purely political orator, Mr. Chandler brushes aside the trivial and the unjust and after examining the claims of both presidential candidates, comes to the conclusion that the country cannot do better than to return Mr. Wilson to Washington for the four years to come.

A few points brought out by Mr. Chandler deserve special consideration. Taking up the republican complaints on the Mexican situation he said that the arguments of the republicans are merely for campaign purposes and that the day after election—should Hughes be successful—he would do about as President Wilson has done. "The only other alternative is war," he said, "and neither the people nor the politicians of any party want war."

Mr. Chandler also delved down to the jealousy and greed of business interests that underlie much of the criticism of the president. He showed how the power has gradually passed from the heads of the great corporations and how the people have a greater hand in the government than at any time in half a century. This, he said, may lead to mistakes and may be somewhat inefficient, but who would have the efficiency of special privilege instead of the government of a democracy?

Of the president's writing of notes he said that more people have read these notes and messages than have read the notes of any of his predecessors. This led naturally to the foreign situation, and Mr. Chandler commended the president for his stand for American interests, irrespective of the howls of all who are swayed by their zeal or their prejudices in favor of one side or the other of the warring groups. In the last analysis he based his support of President Wilson on "America First," which should be good enough for everybody.

BEWARE THE BONFIRE!

The permission of the fire chief is now necessary before anyone can burn leaves or other rubbish on the premises, but the law is not as generally known as it ought to be. So much for the official precaution, which does not end the responsibility of those who may make such a fire. During the last week there were two sad instances of death from burning, and in each case the clothing of children caught fire beside one of those outdoor bonfires. The greatest caution is necessary, and it might be well for those who contemplate burning up refuse to get in touch with the fire department and have some experienced person supervise the burning. Now that the dry leaves are piled up so profusely, it is a simple matter to start a fire that may have disastrous consequences.

It is also in order for hunters and walkers in the woods to heed the annual warnings against throwing away the lighted match or the cigar or cigarette stub. The government is paying a great sum for the supervision of the woodlands but too often a careless individual does a great amount of damage through thoughtlessness. We have been blissfully free from brush fires this season, and it behooves all to refrain from the obvious acts that may lead to loss of life and property. Beware the bonfire and the discarded match and stub.

RELIEF OF POLAND

Those who say that President Wilson ought to stop the war in the old world may find food for thought in his failure to get the rulers to agree on some scheme whereby Polish relief might be distributed. He has received replies to his letter from the rulers of all the warring nations, but they refuse to make the necessary concessions whereby Poland may be spared further starvation and suffering.

Though couched in the language of diplomacy the president's letter put plainly before the rulers the plight of Poland. They read "the death by slow or rapid starvation of millions of innocent people is so awful a fact that such an outcome should be averted if it is within the compass of human effort to avert it." To be sure it is within the compass of human effort, but the warring powers care little for the sufferings of the smaller peoples in their mad desire for victory.

Meanwhile America must stand by and watch Poland in her death agony while king and kaiser or their governments haggle over the terms of food distribution. The president promised the co-operation of our people to the belligerents, but even in this side issue they are not willing to concede anything. How futile then, to hope that they would respond favorably to the offer of the president for peace mediation!

REGISTER NOW

If you are qualified to vote but have not as yet registered, this is your last chance to do so and tomorrow it will be too late. The last session for registration started at noon today and it will close this evening at 10 o'clock. If you register you may aid in the election of a president, a United States senator, a governor and other state officers. Whoever may be your choice, go to city hall this evening and register. If you have no choice, go and register and then look up the various candidates for the great offices. It is your duty as an American citizen to take a conscientious part in it. If you as an American citizen neglect to register out of carelessness or indifference, be consistent all the way through and do not express any opinion as to the choice of the country or the state at the coming election. As a purely American function it ought not to interest anybody who makes light of his citizenship—and the man who having the right to do so and refuses to register makes light of it in the worst way. Wake up. Go to city hall tonight and get on the list of voters.

WATCH THE BARGAINS

While all progressive stores run bargain sales now and then the real bargain time is between seasons and the prudent housekeeper will do well to watch the newspapers at the present time. The winter stocks are not fully in and the summer stocks are being taken out. Storekeepers do not care to carry over heavy lines of merchandise and whether in clothing, in household furniture, in great or little things there are many opportunities for wise buying. The enterprising merchant knows that the best way of calling his wares to the attention of the public is through the medium of the newspapers, and every day The Sun has advertisements of bargains that it will pay readers to investigate. If you want a suit, or an overcoat or a hat or a dining-room table or a clothes basket or bath room towels or a thousand and one other things, just watch the advertisements of the stores in The Sun and you will save time and money. Here is one way to get a body blow at the high cost of living, which everybody is kicking against.

DUMMER STREET

The city officials are significantly silent on that dubious improvement known as the "Dummer street extension," and indeed there is little good to be said of it. It may bring pleasure and some measure of profit to two or three or six individuals but it has brought nothing but disappointment to the general public who will have to pay a pretty figure for it before its completion. It is a city beautiful plan which did not beautify, and a convenience to traffic where no convenience was needed. If carried out as planned it will put two streets where there are more than enough streets already and when all is said and done it will not be worth a cent of what it will cost. The raising of the poor type of buildings has indeed given the city a fine site for a public building worthy of the municipal group adjacent, but if the park plan is carried out, even so far as Market street, the Lowell of the future may regret it.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

In his letters to the superintendent of police relative to the selling of liquor in clubs and the police supervision of places where a Sunday business is done, Mayor O'Donnell calls for rigid law enforcement, and if the superintendent is what he is supposed to be by the people, viz: acting head of the police department, the answer should be favorable. Just as the mayor may expect the superintendent to do his full duty, the police head may expect the same from the men over whom he has authority and it is up to him to see that they do their duty. The people are tired of controversy and they are tired of letter writing. What they want is the strict and uniform enforcement of the law against all who conduct licensed places.

"But Mamma, why does the man wear earrings?" And why does he walk that way?"

"Well, who are the men in the automobile? And why is the cowboy chasing them?"

(Reply gaining in strength.)

"Is there a choo-choo car in this picture, Mamma? I like the choo-choo pictures."

(Reply short and snappy.)

"Why isn't there, Mamma?"

(Reply brief and unsatisfactory.)

"Yes, they could, Mamma. They could let him to the track and let the choo-choo car, Mamma, look! What inside the automobile turn upside down in the water?"

(Reply evasive and inclined to be cheeky.)

"But, Mamma, where is the lady in the old suit? Did the big rats eat her up? Could rats really swim like that, Mamma?"

(Reply incoherent.)

"But I don't understand. Why didn't the man with the earrings kill her, Mamma? Wasn't his knife sharp enough?"

(Reply evidently unbelievable.)

"But does she always escape, Mamma? Aren't they ever going to kill her?"

Second Samuel, 1:20

"Toll it not in Gath, nor publish it within the streets of Askelon!"

So spoke a prophet of an olden time. A century long dead and gone.

When in the haunts of daily life you pause to tell a neighbor's shame

Or whisper softly of some doubtful deed,

Or stain with evil slur his name.

Have something more to justify your word

Than that old threadbare line, "they say,"

Or "I have heard," or that vampire "his said."

Those thieves that steal the truth away.

For these are subterfuges, scapegoats all.

That scandal-mongers hide behind.

And if you use them to speed on your tale

You are the scandal monger's kind.

For honest men will set their honest names

To accusations they believe.

His only cover (who may read you next)

Who hide from blame they should receive.

If you dare not justify your tale, Recall the text of confutes you.

And tell it not in Gath, nor publish it within the streets of Askelon!

—Sara Beaumont Kennedy, in Memorial Commercial Appeal.

"The majority of people, and women in particular," says the Newark Star. "do not drink enough water. Ice cold water, however, is not good for the system at any time."

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

People who are forced to stay indoors all day in an office or home drink too little water between meals, and then, in many cases, make the mistake of drinking too much water with their meals. A glass of water with each meal, preferably at the end, will aid digestion. To wash down one's food, however, is a very bad, although quite common, mistake. It is particularly hard on one's stomach, and that poor, overburdened organ is sure to react it sooner or later. One excellent rule is to drink a glass of water just before going to bed and immediately upon arising in the morning. The plain everyday brand is better for this purpose than charged or carbonated waters. Water should be taken externally as well as internally as an aid to health. A cold dip or a sponge bath in the morning, providing one is strong enough to stand it, will aid in circulation and respiration, and promotes bodily activity and health.

RILEY FOR LODGE IF FOSS IS PICKED

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Judge Thomas P. Riley, democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor, served notice on party leaders last night that he would not agree to the substitution of ex-Gov. Foss as the candidate for the United States senate in place of John F. Fitzgerald.

Judge Riley goes so far in his opposition to Mr. Foss as to say that if the latter gets the nomination he will take the stump in preference for Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

This is the ultimatum delivered by Judge Riley and which is expected to put the kibosh on further consideration of Mr. Foss. He said:

"I will never stand for Foss. If he is given the senatorial nomination I will stump the state for Lodge in preference. I would rather go down to ignominious defeat than to take that man after the shameful way he treated the democratic party. I wouldn't stand for Foss in this contest if he gave the democratic party all the money he has."

In conferences held yesterday the name of ex-Gov. Foss was very strongly considered. Martin M. Lonsness was reported to be in favor of the "Old Boys." In fact while the names of a number of eminent gentlemen have been mentioned the question of a candidate to take the place of Mr. Fitzgerald has narrowed down between Mr. Foss and Chairman Hale of the progressive state committee.

Apparently Judge Riley had not been consulted by those leaders who are bent upon getting a candidate in place of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, but he was sufficiently impressed with the possibility of Mr. Foss being named to make the above statement. At the recent primaries Mr. Riley polled the biggest vote cast for any of the democratic candidates and naturally his attitude on the matter will have considerable influence with the democratic state committee of which organization he was the leader for three years.

Judge Riley's determination to tear the party wide open if Mr. Fitzgerald should advocate in favor of ex-Gov. Foss will undoubtedly have its effect on the final determination of the senatorial contest, which will probably be made today.

Judge Riley is not opposed to the nomination of Matthew Hale, but believes Mr. Fitzgerald should remain in the field.

There will be addresses by the pastor, Dr. N. W. Matthews of the Gosham Street Primitive Methodist church, and Mr. Charles Moore, moderator of the board of trustees. Mr. E. Kimball will preside.

COUPLE INVITES WHOLE TOWN TO WEDDING

LORD AND LADY BOUNTIFUL, CEREMONY AT BELLOWS FALLS, VERMONT

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Oct. 18.—Bellevue Falls was last night treated to a Lord and Lady Bountiful wedding. Richard Carleton Wood of 16 Center street, Roxbury, an electrician, and Miss Marion Knowles of Henshaw st., Fall River, were the central figures in the ceremony.

The couple arrived in town yesterday and aroused no more interest at the time than do the scores of couples with similar purpose who drop in every week. But it was not long before the merchants were aware that this couple was a little different than others. Hardly a store in town but received some share of the largesse of the couple. Many substantial orders were placed for trousseau, jewelry and the like and in one jewelry store $200 passed over the counter to the contented proprietor.

After completing a few additional purchases yesterday morning, the couple motored to Chester, Vt., whence they returned with Rev. F. C. Williams, an Episcopal rector. At every store at which they had made purchases here

"Spare no expense," has been Mr. Wood's motto during his stay in town and Bellevue Falls hopes it won't be long before his like appears again. It has no high hopes, however.

BATTERY WELCOMED BACK FROM MEXICAN BORDER

A hearty welcome was accorded the members of Battery C, 1st Battalion, Field Artillery, upon their arrival in this city from El Paso last evening. The real reception, however, was held in Lawrence where there was a parade, red fire, band music and cheering crowds.

Many friends were on hand to greet the men as the train pulled in at the Middlesex street depot at 8:25 o'clock and Major O'Donnell was one of the very first to shake hands with the Lowell boys and welcome them home. Later he went to Lawrence where he greeted them again and led in the parade. The train stopped less than ten minutes in this city and in the short time allowed there were some home-coming scenes that had a tendency to give one a funny little feeling—and a good feeling too—in the region of the heart.

The starting of the parade in Lawrence was delayed for some time by the difficulties in the way of unloading the equipment and it was nearly 11 o'clock before the boys were ready to march. They were escorted by a group of former militiamen, a band and two drum corps.

The crowd of admiring citizens had a splendid opportunity to see the battery in full war regalia, with men, horses and outfit in first class fighting condition. Every man was trained down to fighting weight and looked in the pink of condition, tanned by the Texas sun to a hue that looks very much out of place in this part of the country in October.

Crowds gathered all along the line of march to greet the soldiers just back from the border. There was a reviewing stand filled with Lawrence city officials and others, and while the boys enjoyed the big fuss that was being made about their home coming, homes and dear ones were upmost in their minds and they kept up a lively pace knowing that the sooner it was over the sooner they would reach home.

The boys found a very generous spread awaiting them at the armory and the scenes there were often pathetic, especially where mothers were coming their sons back from the border and wives held up their little children to be kissed by their soldier-fathers.

As soon as the men reached quarters there was a grand scramble for the shower baths, as each looked as if he had been shoveling coal all day and the men are wondering how soon they will be mustered out of service.

It was rumored in Lawrence that the soldier boys would march all the way to the armory in Methuen and men and women were heard to say that it was a downright shame. But the fact remained that no such plan existed and the soldiers were taken in street cars from the corner of Essex street and Broadway.

MAYOR ASKS AID FOR SUFFERING ARMENIA

Next Saturday has been set aside as tag day for the relief of the people of Armenia, Syria, Persia and Palestine. Mayor O'Donnell, in compliance with the request of the Lowell committee of the American Armenian and Syrian relief, has asked local clergymen to take up collections in their respective churches next Sunday in order to swell the funds raised in this city. In connection with tag day, the mayor this morning issued the following statement for publication:

To the Public:

To help meet the appalling situation in the unhappy countries of Armenia, Syria, Persia and Palestine, congress recently passed a resolution asking President Wilson to appoint a time for making an appeal and receiving gifts for the sufferers. The president has designated Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 21 and 22, for this purpose.

On Saturday next, therefore, a tag day will be held in this city, in order to give all people an opportunity to contribute their mite toward this worthy cause, while, on Sunday, collections will be held in the various churches of this city.

The newspapers have recently published the distressing news that Lowell ranks among the first cities in the United States in generosity, the statistics having been gathered as the result of public contributions for charitable purposes. Look the people of Lowell maintain the city's high standing by generously responding to the call of suffering Armenia, for by aiding this cause their generosity will not be misplaced.

James E. O'Donnell,
Mayor of Lowell.

PARADE IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Oct. 18.—Citizens of Worcester and adjoining towns united last night in a big reception for Battery C, 1st Regiment Field Artillery, A.N.G., which returned to Worcester last yesterday afternoon, after a four months' sojourn at the Mexican border.

About 100,000 men, women and children crowded the streets in the center of the city to witness the parade and many of them waited for more than three hours.

The battery had 150 men in line, while Cos. A, C and H were represented by a complete quota of men.

SAYS SARSON GANG DIVIDED HALF MILLION A YEAR

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—That for the last five years firebugs and corrupt insurance adjusters have been dividing more than $500,000 a year between them while the public has been sound asleep was one of the startling statements made by Mayor Curley in the course of an address before the Parkman Parents' Association of Forest Hills at Parkman hall last evening before an audience of nearly 200. The mayor was discussing the power of public opinion in effecting reforms and the difficulty of arousing it to the degree necessary of undertaking them.

"I am certain that before they get through with these investigations they are going to discover that certain fire insurance adjusters were acting in collusion with the firebugs," declared the mayor. "If we can secure a sufficient number of indictments and send these men to prison for terms of 10 years it will do away with the tremendous fire losses that the people have been paying these last years and will make it safe again for a person to go to sleep at night."

The speaker said that one of the most numerous sources of fire loss was from clothing in closets. Investigation revealed that some persons were collecting $100 fire damages on clothing worth about $30.

"The situation was terrible," said Mayor Curley. "In the Salem district there were 28 of these closet fires a week. The fire station in that vicinity was working night and day. The men were on the verge of nervous prostration. It was necessary to buy new horses for the station every six months."

He went on to tell how he had summoned the fire adjusters to city hall and got them to refuse to pay insurance on damage resulting from closet fires.

"And the wonderful thing was," declared the mayor, "that after that decision, the suspicious fires dropped from 15 a week to six in 2 1/2 months."

serted that he had subscribed to it under duress and threat, were considered by the court as one, the same finding being returned in each.

The general question involved, according to the opinion in which Judges Bingham and Aldrich joined as the majority, is whether the national defense act of last June repeals provisions of the Dick law authorizing the president to use the organized state militia to help repel invasion and suppress insurrection; whether it is left altogether at the option of members of the state militia to sign a new enlistment contract, and whether, in the event of a refusal to sign, the militia man is mustered out.

"It is quite likely," the court added, "that if the question were to be determined under rules of strict construction, the conclusion reached by the district court would be quite justifiable." The higher court held, however, that the "vital question whether the military power of the government shall be potential and effective in the hands of the authorities or is to be contingent upon the option of constituent members of the military organizations," at issue, a liberal construction was needed.

"The act of 1916, being one for national defense," the opinion said, "and one for more effectual provisions for that end, and congress upon its passage, being under the weight of well known existing conditions of foreign menace and in the presence of a recent invasion by an organized military body of armed men from a foreign country, the view is an impossible one, that congress intended to make it optional with the whole, or any substantial part of the organized military force of the states, to march or not at will, in furtherance of the duty which they had previously assumed."

The court explained that it considered the statute only in respect to obligations of service under prior enlistments.

In conclusion the court held "that the so-called national defense act of 1916 was intended to give greater efficiency and effectiveness to the federal military force, through classification and standardization under military regulations and orders based upon existing rights and obligations." The act, it continued, was not intended to operate to the end that members of the organized militia who did not see fit to enlist voluntarily for a longer term and assume the broader obligations which might require them to go beyond the national bounds, should be absolved from the duty of responding

The S. T. Taylor system is a rule of actual measurements which can be applied to any change of fashions and the methods of instructions have been perfected during 25 years of continuous successful teaching. To obtain good results in garment construction it is absolutely necessary that a well fitting foundation must first be cut, as it is upon this that the dressmaker builds. It is highly desirable to become an expert in this branch of the art as possible. The instructions given by Miss La Couture will fit one upon completion of the courses to enter the dressmaking and designing field either for commercial or private purposes.

For further information Miss La Couture will be pleased to have the ladies of Lowell and vicinity call and she will be pleased to explain this new department in full.

THE SANDSTORM SCORES U. S. FOR RAISED THINGS YESTERDAY

"For de win' she blow lak hurricane, 'Bimbeys she blow some more."

Sang Dr. Drummond in one of his long-lived French-Canadian dialect poems.

It was like that yesterday. Mr. J. Sandstorm Boreas was on a rampage; he was out to blow himself for an enjoyable time. He did, and it was a bluff, where the big sand dooms are, is still to be heard from.

He blew strange eddies around the corners in the shopping district, causing the Misses and Mrs. Lowell to perform poses plastic and some not so plastic.

And to conform to the fashions of all high cost of living things, lingerie went up.

"Hush!"

"Well it's so."

Didn't Mr. A. Rudolph Rubberneck have to go to an oculist for treatment, and didn't the doctor say, after coming a quail or so of dust from Mr. A. R. Rubberneck's optics:

"I find that in addition to the accumulation of street sweepings which I have removed from your lamps that you are also suffering from severe eye strain?"

Sure he did.

Then the doctor said "35 please."

And Mr. Rubberneck forked it over and said:

"It was worth it, doc."

On Central bridge Mr. Uriah Updyke breezed in carefree abandon and an atmosphere of things spirituous.

His gaze fell upon the river.

"Gosh, gracious," exclaimed he, "isn't the scenery jumpy?"

It was all of that, for Mr. J. Sandstorm Boreas was toying with the Merrimack. As Mr. Updyke gazed in wonder at the boisterous water (more water than he had looked upon in many moons) a slippery, shiny, silvery fish smote him upon his favored brow.

"Gosh!" exclaimed Mr. Updyke in amazement, "that's the first proof I ever had that any fish ever did have its habitat in that there river. I had heard Simon H. Harris says so and now I knew that Simon knew what he was talking about. But Simon says that member of the Lowell Fish and Game association ever had one handed to him in the manner?"

Mr. R. Rudolph Piddlessticks, a well known resident of Pawtucketville, upon being interviewed said:

"When I was a young fellow a fortune teller told me that I should be very successful in real estate. Up to now I hadn't accumulated much in that line, but today I had enough real estate of all sorts forced upon me to make quite a holding, in fact I feel like a corner lot."

"However, I'll sell it cheap," continued Mr. Piddlessticks, as he continued to dig himself out.

Some wind and dust?

Yes.

LONDON PAPER AGAINST HOLDING UP MAILS

SKEPTICAL ABOUT MILITARY VALUE OF EXAMINATION OF U. S. MAILS

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Commenting upon the reply of the entente allies to the American protest against interference with mails, the Manchester Guardian says that while the allies are acting within their legal rights, "we are extremely skeptical about the military value of the examination of inward mails from the United States. Moreover, some of the interference is merely vexatious and we cannot conceive why German newspapers to the United States should be regarded as contraband."

"No doubt correspondence might be carried on by that means, but the risk of injury to us is small, and we can quite understand the vexation of Americans at this double or treble insurance at their expense."

NINE PERISHED BRUTAL DOUBLE MURDER IN SHOP FIRE IN NEW YORK BALTIMORE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Two more bodies were found today in the three-story ruins of the Oakes Dye Mfg. Co.'s plant in Queens borough, bringing the number of victims up to nine. The dead, of whom six were young women, include Harry C. Cook, 42 years old, treasurer of the company, and the chief bookkeeper, three assistant bookkeepers, the telephone operator and three stenographers.

Investigators today expressed belief that those who perished tarried in an effort to save the company's books, which were found preserved in a safe and were then overcome by acid fumes, before the flames reached them.

The property loss is estimated at upwards of $170,000, including that incurred by the Astoria Veneer Co., whose pier, loaded with kilnwood, was partly destroyed.

In addition to the office building, five one-story storage buildings of the Oakes company were destroyed. From these buildings the fire spread to the Astoria veneer mill and lumber yard, where many thousands of feet of lumber was destroyed.

The police have learned that an electrician at work on the first floor of the dye-making plant, making repairs to the electric light fixtures, dropped a ladder on a far containing chemicals with burst into flames.

There were six young women and three men on the second floor when the fire began. Not one of them had been seen since. A steel stairway led from the upper floor to the first floor on the inside of the building. There also were two iron fire escapes and one steel stairway escape on the outside. A half-dozen windows were located close to where the young women were at work, and it would have been a drop of only 16 feet to the street. The authorities believe the employees were suffocated by chemical fumes and were unable to attempt escape.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 18.—One of the most brutal double murders in the annals of crime in Baltimore county was unearthed late yesterday afternoon by the authorities when the body of Andrew Freyer, 30 years old, and that of his sister, Marie Frey, 29 years old, were found in a lonely spot not far from their home near Rosedale, along the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington railroad.

The body of the girl was mutilated and the murderer had made every effort to destroy the body of it after pouring oil on it and setting it afire. According to detectives who are working on the case, it is evident also that the girl had been criminally assaulted.

After the couple had been murdered, the house was robbed and everything of value taken. Signs of a fierce struggle between the murderer or murderers and Freyer were apparent everywhere.

to the emergency call of the president. Nor was the act aimed to relieve the militiamen from serving a specified term within the country, the opinion stated.

"It results, therefore," said the court, "that when the petitioner (Emerson) elected not to enlist for the longer term and the broader service, that he was still in the service for the federal purposes contemplated at the time he enlisted in the Massachusetts militia and took the oath to obey all laws and regulations for the government of the volunteer militia of the commonwealth, to obey the order of all officers and support the United States."

Judge Putnam, in dissenting, said: "It seems to me that the act of June 3, 1916, is too positive and precise to be modified by construction in the manner attempted by the opinion of the court, and I therefore conclude that the decrees and orders of the district court should be affirmed and dissent to that extent from the opinion of the court."

Emerson and Lowell, with three other militiamen, Rockwell C. Tenney of Springfield, J. B. Agnew of Brookline and C. W. Jackson of Boston, obtained release from the mobilization camp at Framingham last August through habeas corpus proceedings in the district court.

SWIMS ASHORE WITH BRIDE AFTER WRECK

MRS. AND MRS. RALPH CHURCH
ADRIPT ALL NIGHT OFF PORT-
LAND—THRILLING EXPERIENCE

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 18.—Ralph Church and his 17-year-old bride, who drifted eight hours Monday night in a boat in which the engine refused to work, were cast ashore on Long Island within half a mile of their cottage and he went ashore, holding his wife in his arms, just at dawn yesterday.

"There were no sails in the boat and the one our broke and went adrift when young Church tried to shape a course after the engine balked. They were swept through Hussey's Sound and went toward the open sea Monday afternoon. When the tide came in they were piled on the rocks, the boat was smashed and they were cast overboard."

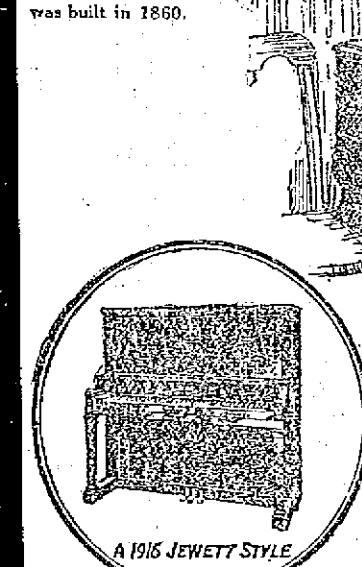

Capt. Bert Johnson, father of Mrs. Church, gave warning when the young couple did not return home in the evening and half a dozen crews searched along the inside passages and in the coves for the missing pair.

A 1916 JEWETT STYLE

When Grandmother Was a Girl

THE Jewett Piano was even then a favorite in the homes of musical people in New England. It was a fine example of the type of piano-forte in use at the time, and Jewett Square Pianos (like the one in the picture) built in the early seventies are still in excellent condition and are frequently taken by us in exchange for the later modern style Jewett Pianos.

The JEWETT

owes three things to its glorious past

1. The splendid stamp of the creative genius of W. H. Jewett upon it at the first, which has guided its modern development to such a high point of perfection.
2. A remarkable and convincing proof of its reliability and durability.
3. Thousands of friends among musicians who have played the Jewett Piano and know at first hand of its superior tonal qualities.

MAN IN THE MOON

The hunters' moon rode high in the heavens when a friend and I arrived at the camp of Jim that is on the shores of Lake Pawtuckaway, Nottingham, N. H. We went prepared, as we imagined, for a moon hunt, but found long before the small hours of morning that we were not. We found Jim expecting us and finding a place for our horse and carriage, which we had chartered at Raymond we were soon eating hungrily of the appetizing things Jim had prepared for us—fish chowder, a side of boiled beef and coffee.

Some time before we had made arrangements with Jim for this moon hunt and Jim was an experienced hand at that game. While eating and for a time after, Jim, who once had been a professional ball player, regaled us with interesting reminiscences relative to his baseball career and also whittled our appetites for the hunt before us with many a tale of coons grates which had rewarded him and his companions.

The hunt, about 5 o'clock we sallied forth in sweaters and rubber boots and followed our trusty guide. In a short time we arrived at a farm house where lived two young chaps who were to accompany us. Two dogs that were lying in the kitchen rose up as we entered, wagged their tails, pranced around and emitted long howls, which denoted plainly that they knew what was going on. There was moon preparation: Out in the barn a horse was harnessed and hitched into a two-seated wagon, and as there were five of us, two dogs that were brought forth and stowed away for future use. One fellow put his double-barreled shotgun in the wagon. We piled in, dogs and all, and we were off for the hunting grounds, which they said were a few miles distant—a locality particularly good for bagging several good fat coons. We followed the main road for a time and then taking down some bars we turned in and followed a lane leading down through woods and fields and at last stopped at a deserted old house, lighted and blanketed our horse, hitched our lanterns and set forth. We tramped through an open field to a wall, on the other side of which a big corn field stretched away until it seemed to merge in the shadows of the dark woods beyond. Here the dogs were loosed and needed not their master's injunction to "seek 'em"—they were off on the instant with tails in air and noses to the ground. "We'll wait here a bit," quoth Jim as he took a pull at a flask of cold coffee. But we didn't wait long. There were coons in that cornfield when we approached and, sensing trouble, were even then scurrying for safety. They left plenty of tracks, for soon the dogs informed us that they were on them. If we had begun to feel rather chilly in the crisp October air we forgot about it when the dogs began to bark and, glowing with excitement we dashed, lanterns in hand, through the corn field, tumbling over pumpkins and tripping over vines. The coons which the dogs were after had gone into the woods and we, following after, in a few moments stopped under a good sized oak where the dogs were barking furiously, which told us plainly enough that there were "coons up a tree," but we couldn't see 'em. They were up there and it was up to us to get 'em down, dead or alive. The chances were greatly against the coons and, being naturally soft hearted myself, I couldn't hold thinking how the five men standing beneath the tree were scarcely less murderous in intent than were those two dogs. No time, however, was wasted in moralizing. Since the moon was now shining brilliantly in a cloudless sky and making objects plainly visible a short distance away, the lanterns were extinguished and one of the farmer boys began to climb the tree. Presently he called: "There are two of 'em up here anyway—don't see any more. Watch out!"

There wasn't any more. The happenings of the next ten minutes would certainly have made a hit in the movies. The boy climbed to the top of the tree and getting above the coons succeeded in finally dislodging them; and as they struck the ground two men and two dogs met them. (It doesn't reckon in the two cents from the big town for they did little more than jump around and keep out of the way.) In a short space of time all was over and two dead coons lay upon the ground. One of them put up a fierce fight and gave one of the dogs a good bite. During the scrimmage at one time Jim a dog and the coon were rolling on the ground together and I thought Jim was trying to catch the coon with his hands—just as Uncle Sam's boys did at San Juan hill to the Spaniards—but afterwards learned that he was knocked down by the dog and coon and had hard work getting out his feet. So we had two rat coons bagged for the other farmer boy had got in his work on the other. Two coons they said was a good night's work of itself but it was proposed, since it was but one o'clock a. m., to see if we couldn't get a few more before morning. The dogs, nothing loath, again went nosing around and soon we were told that there was likely to be something doing directly. We found the dogs under a tree at least a quarter of a mile from the scene of the recent kill. This time it was an old coon and two young ones. The old one fell before a shot from the gun, while the two young ones fell easy prey to the valiant attack of five men and two dogs. It was a shame, but it had to be done. We, each man carrying a dead coon over his shoulder, tramped to where our horse was impatiently waiting for our return. We got to the farm house about 2 a. m., then we walked to Jim's camp, each with a coon on his back. Jim soon had a good fire going which felt good. With the assistance of a little hot water Jim concocted a mixture which he declared "a sure cure for the prevention of a cold," and after partaking of a light feed, during which Jim brought out the salient features of our night's exploits and complimented us both for our coolness on the firing line, we turned in for a sleep that lasted until 10 in the morning. Getting up and having a good bath and rub-down we did ample justice to a breakfast of bacon and eggs, a side of beans and hot coffee. As we didn't have to return home until afternoon we went out on Pawtuckaway, its water gleaming in the bright morning sun and reflecting in its depths the green, purple and gold of its wood-fringed shore, while Jim was engaged in the more prosaic occupation of skinning and dressing the coons destined for Lowell. We made farewell to Jim and Pawtuckaway which has proven to be a long one, for this coon hunt took place early in Pres. Taft's administration, (and Bill, you know, loved to eat coons.) How we brought those coons to Lowell, how they were rendered edible by a chef skilled in that sort of thing, how in the bachelor apartments of a former member of the Rod and Gun club a party of good men and true did eat of those cooked coons and pronounced them good, are matters which may still be recalled by those who participated and who still survive should they perchance read this. Several of that party are no more—one, my companion in the hunt from the big town, but three months dead. Some of these October nights made resplendent by the hunter's moon bring back to me vividly that old hunt for coon in the woods of Nottingham.

DUKE OF ORLEANS WANTS MARRIAGE ANNULLED

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The Duke of Orleans is about to apply to the court of Rome for the annulment of his marriage to the Archduchess Marie Theresia of Austria, according to the Paris press. The duke contends that the marriage was not concluded on the Austrian side in accordance with all the requirements of ecclesiastical law.

The Duchess of Orleans won a suit for separation in January, 1914. It was reported that she charged the duke with neglect owing to the fact that she was childless. At the outbreak of the war the duke, in the back the insignia of the Golden Fleece to the Austrian emperor, wrote that his marriage had been the curse of his life.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Bobbie Heath, who appears in the "Girlish Revue," at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week has the fascinating knack of centering attention on herself. Heath writes songs and sings funny speeches, and his facial expression is genuinely funny. The musical numbers given during the production were all written by him, and they have much popular merit. The six young women who assist in the production are very pretty and add not a little to the success of the act. All together, this is rated as good entertainment. Frances, Ward and Buncie Wyde, an agile young man, and a very blonde young woman, give "That's All Right," a musical comedy skit, which is a very funny thing. The twin are not unknown in this city and they are always sure to make many friends. Emily, Frances, Buncie, Ward, Robert Marden, dancers par excellence, exhibit classiness and a lot of new and difficult steps. They are tap-dancers and their dancing is very much liked. Kitner, Taylor & McClay, a singing and comedy trio, are surprisingly good. They have an ordinary vehicle, but make the most of it and emerge as one of the best features of the bill. Deszo Rotter, in his wrestling specialty is literally a scream, and Gene and Delia Muller, the champion aerobane hoopers. Of special interest is the concluding chapter of "Gloria's Romance," with Billie and Delia. It is a fitting close for a great picture series. Seats for all performances may be obtained in advance. Phone 28.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"In Walked Jimmy," the comedy dramatic success of the season, which is the offering of the Emerson players at the Opera House all this week, is one of the best features of the bill. It is in this city in many years and Ivan Miller, the popular leading man of the Emerson players is scoring the biggest hit of his career in the role. Seldom has Lowell seen such a splendid play so splendidly produced and the advance sale of seats indicates one of the biggest weeks ever known in the city.

The play is delightful. It tells the story about Jimmy—whose identity is unknown until the last act—who comes into the life of John Trevelyan and the factory of the Cinderella Shoe concern when Trevelyan is about to die. His life has been a picture in business Jimmy "blows" the town and makes the people believe that the concern is doing so much business that it is unable to handle it all. He wins and around his victory the author has woven a great story of love, laughter and thrills that will appeal to the emotions of all classes of spectators.

Ivan Miller is great as Jimmy and his acting is indeed the best exhibition that Lowell has seen in a long time. Mr. Miller plays the part with all the vim and vigor that the author intended. A better characterization of the part can scarcely be conceived. Inez Ragan as Kitty Blake is charming. Jimmy Hayden plays Bobby splendidly while Milford Vincent does very well as Arnold Baker. James T. Galloway as Trevelyan gives a splendid portrait of the character. Ross Morrison as Mrs. Schmidt and Gertrude Shirley as Della furnish many laughs. David Baker, Ben Madfield, Ernest East, Frank Wicks, and McLeod and other members of the company play their parts finely. The scenic production is of unusual beauty and one of the best since the coming of the Emerson players to Lowell.

Now is the time to secure seats. Make reservations early. Phone 261.

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"The Birth of a Nation," which is now playing at the Merrimack Square theatre is the most remarkable attraction of recent years in American stage annals. It uses 18,000 people to tell a story and 3000 horses add their quota to its splendor. The epic links history and romance in a way never attempted before. Its basic scenes are identified on some of the most stirring events in the nation's development and these are contrasted with human appeals and family interests which are after all the essentials of true drama. Great battles of the Civil war are fought before your eyes. Lee surrenders to Grant at Appomattox. Lincoln is assassinated as actually as the scene took place fifty years ago in Ford's theatre, Washington. The south before and after the war is pictured in its most interesting phases; wild rides of the Klansmen lend a dash and spirit to the performance. All remains exactly as it was given originally in New York City and Boston when this marvelous picture astounded all and created more comment than all the plays that have been seen in a decade. It is a picture in a lifetime one that will in all probability never be duplicated and for that reason should be viewed by every man, woman and child in this city. Once seen it is never to be forgotten and since the Merrimack Square theatre has been crowded daily during the past two days for this remarkable spectacle which will continue for the rest of this week it would be wise for all who desire to view this gigantic production as early in the week as possible. Make it today. No seats reserved.

There will be two performances daily, the matinees starting promptly at 2 o'clock, while the evening sessions will start at 8 o'clock. The patrons are requested to reach the theatre in plenty of season to be seated before the opening of the mighty production.

"IN WALKED JIMMY" MAKES YOU FEEL YOUNG AGAIN

Ralph Kellard is the emphasized feature for the first episode shown last week, has pointed out the wonderful possibilities of the new story. The twelfth episode of "The Grip of Evil" with Jack Saunders and "Royal" Bottomly is another feature, while "The Girl From Frisco" will be featured in the eighth episode of "The Grip of Evil." All these stories are printed in novel form by the big Boston dailies, and each episode can be witnessed at the Royal theatre, the home of serial photoplays.

Serial pictures have proved such a strong drawing card, that the management of this theatre has decided to book all the biggest and best that the film makers can put out. This explains the many serial plays and serials offered at the Royal. Others shown are the Kalem railroad dramas on Mondays and the "Ham and Ned" comedies on Fridays.

OWL THEATRE

William Farnum, the greatest outdoor actor in the world, once more brings into play the wonderful strength and power of his frame, which has gained him such fame, in the latest of the William Fox features, "The End of the Trail," the heart stirring photodrama of the great "Out" which will head the big theatrical program for today and tomorrow. Appearing in the role of a Canadian trapper, Farnum is seen at his best, and supporting him is one of the best all-star casts seen in a Fox release for some time.

"The End of the Trail" is a picturization of the famous stage success of the same name, and tells a wonderful story of life among the snows of Hudson Bay. Farnum, in the role of a trapper, meets the much-abused wife of another man who has seized her and taken her away to a lonely life in the forests. Overcome by his brutality, she escapes and comes by his brutality, that her husband has been left for dead by a treacherous Indian guide. Upon hearing this she soon after marries the big hearted trapper, and a daughter is born to them. Her first husband, however, is nursed back to life and returns to the post about this time. He once more steals the young wife and her daughter and goes back into the deep woods again. The big trapper immediately starts on his trail and swears vengeance. How the long trail extended over a period of many years and how the debt was finally paid forms one of the most touching photoplays ever produced, and one in which the story of fight for love gives Farnum a chance for his best acting. Other excellent acts will also be shown at the Owl today and tomorrow in conjunction with "The End of the Trail."

MANSFIELD CONTINUES ATTACK ON GOVERNOR

Frederick W. Mansfield, democratic candidate for governor, spoke at open air rallies in Westford, Ayer, Pepperell, Shirley and Groton last night. The candidate continued his attack upon Gov. McCall for failure to aid in constructive action on the milk question. Mr. Mansfield said the governor with questions on his pre-election promises, which he said had not been fulfilled. The democratic candidate stated that he proposed to continue asking these questions until they were replied to.

To Attract Farmers
Mr. Mansfield maintained that these pre-election promises were given out especially to attract the vote of the farmers of the state, and inasmuch as the democratic candidate proposed to wage his campaign along the lines of the milk question and the extreme position in which the railroads of the state had been placed, both questions dealing more or less directly with the farmer, a reply would be necessary so that the people of the state would know which candidate for the governorship was worthy of their support.

Mr. Mansfield in the course of his remarks stated that he had never made a promise in his entire career that he had not fulfilled, and this record was one which he proposed to maintain throughout his life. Therefore, any promises which the candidate made before election would be fulfilled by him when elected governor on Nov. 7.

Mr. Mansfield said in part:

he does not get a fair price for the milk he is forced in many cases to sell his cattle.

"This means not only a less quantity of milk produced each year, but it means that the farm grows less fertile. The farmer has to depend upon commercial fertilizer which does not contain all the elements that are necessary and which are to be found in natural fertilizer. The result is that the farm grows poorer and poorer and ultimately has to be sold or practically given up and it becomes an abandoned farm.

The only way to correct this tendency, which is fatal to the life of any country, is to make the keeping of cattle profitable. To this end the farmer should be paid more for his milk, and yet some means should be devised whereby the price could be lessened to the consumer. The milk contractor, who is the middleman between the farmer and the consumer, is the man who is reaping the profits at both ends.

"If I am elected governor of this commonwealth I promise faithfully that legislation which will accomplish this result will be enacted."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS 28,262 CASES IN NATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—According to figures made public at the United States public health service yesterday there were 28,262 cases of infantile paralysis in the United States between July 1 and Sept. 25 of this year.

New York leads with a total of 7857 cases, while New York state, outside the metropolis, had 3533 cases. New Jersey came next with 3877 cases. Pennsylvania and Massachusetts reported more than 1000 cases each. In the opinion of Dr. C. H. Lavinier of the public health service the epidemic is now under control.

FINDS PARALYSIS GERM

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Medical men showed keen interest when word reached this city that Dr. Edward C. Rosenow, head of the bacteriological department of the Mayo foundation at Rochester, Minn., had finally succeeded in isolating the germ which, judging from the unfavorable results of many experiments, is the cause of infantile paralysis.

Dr. Rosenow, in his principal experiments, made in New York, was assisted by Dr. Edward B. Towne of Boston and Dr. George W. Wheeler of this city.

One very important result of Dr. Rosenow's work here during the past summer—the work he did in Minnesota only a few days ago—was the discovery that invariably the germ which he has isolated was found in the tonsils of children suffering from infantile paralysis, the inference being that the tonsils play an important part in the contraction of the disease.

Naturally, the question has arisen, therefore, in medical minds since learning of Dr. Rosenow's discoveries whether or not the removal of the tonsils of children might prevent infantile paralysis. Dr. Rosenow's experiments here show that children who were not suffering from polio-myelitis who were subjected to a good recovery showed striking improvements after the tonsils had been removed.

Of 121 cases of infantile paralysis treated at the New York hospital's branch hospital in East 68th street by Dr. Rosenow and his assistants there was only one child whose tonsils had been removed before infantile paralysis had been contracted, and in the case where the single patient had contracted the disease after the tonsils had been removed the child showed only a mild form of the disease and did not suffer from paralysis.

But physicians would agree with them if it were possible to get him to talk for publication on the subject—which he of course will not do—that a greater number than 121 cases would have to be observed before any hard and fast decision should be pronounced on what is more important, before a general removal of tonsils from healthy children should be contemplated.

SPECIAL PRAYERS FOR PRESIDENT DROPPED

DEPUTIES OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH ELIMINATE APPEAL FOR HEALTH AND PROSPERITY OF EXECUTIVE

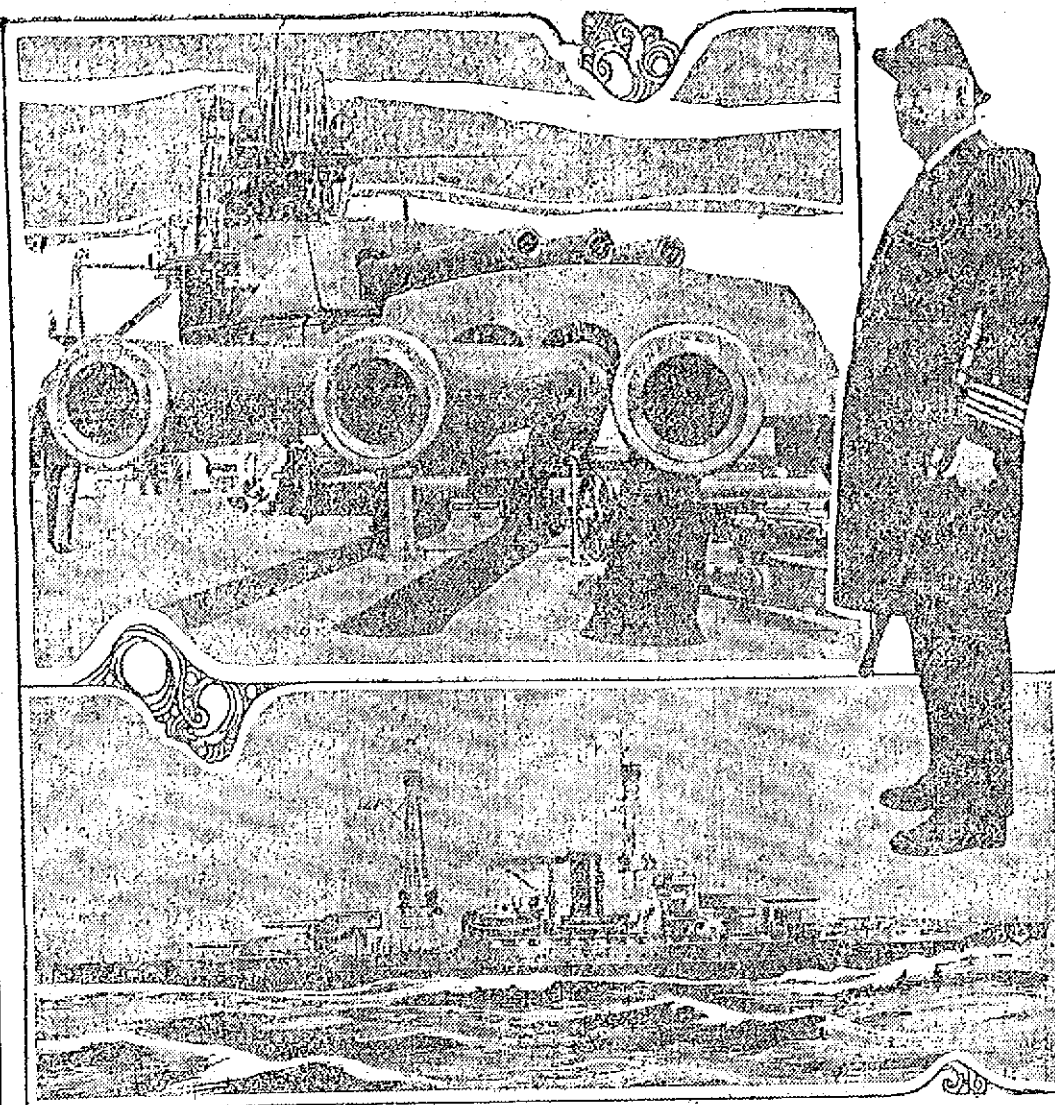

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—The house of deputies of the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church yesterday voted to eliminate the special prayers from the morning and evening prayer service and to substitute for them a prayer for the safety and preservation of the nation. The same prayer will be used in both services.

As it is now in the prayer book the morning prayer asks for the president's health and prosperity and that he finally may attain everlasting joy and felicity. The new prayer as adopted for both services, while asking that the president "and all others in authority" be given "the wisdom and strength to know and to do Thy will" makes no reference to long life, health, prosperity or eternal felicity.

The house also voted, despite vigorous protests, to omit the words "the governor of this state" from the evening prayer. It being argued that "all others in authority" included the governors.

The change, which was adopted at the suggestion of the commission on prayer book, must be approved by the house of bishops and by the next general convention.

BATTLESHIP ARIZONA ENTERS SERVICE AS AMERICAN NAVY'S BIGGEST VESSEL

U.S. ARIZONA, BIG GUNS, CAPT. M. DONALDSON

The superdreadnaught Arizona, latest addition to the Atlantic fleet and one of the most powerful ships in the world, has just entered the service of Uncle Sam, fully manned and ready for action. This addition to the navy is far from a clear gain in strength, since it was necessary to decommission three other battleships of their class and place them in reserve to find a full complement of men for the new fighter.

The 311 men who make up the crew of the Arizona were drawn from the Vermont, the Kansas and the New Hampshire.

The Arizona was turned over to Capt. John D. McDonald with much ceremony. A marine guard stationed at the quarterdeck of the dreadnaught, now at anchor in the New York navy yard, presented arms, the American flag was run up and the commission pennant was broken out upon the after truck. The Arizona then passed formally into the possession of the nation. Her keel was laid in 1914.

The new superdreadnaught, which was built in the New York navy yard, is 608 feet over all, has a displacement of 22,567 tons and is built for a cruising speed of twenty-one knots. Her main battery consists of twelve fourteen-inch guns similar to those shown in the picture. She carries forty-three officers in addition to the 311 men gathered from the three battleships that have gone into reserve, with seventy marines. She is commanded by Captain McDonald, with Lieutenant-Commander W. R. White as executive officer, and as engineer officer Commander S. H. R. Doyle, who built her machinery for her future international actions.

An officer of the Arizona pointed out that the Arizona's twelve 14-inch guns throw 3600 pounds more to a broadside than was contained in the combined broadsides of the Kansas, Vermont and New Hampshire. The Arizona's broadside weighs about ten tons and can be hurled about twenty miles. The other three ships combined carried twelve 12-inch guns in their main batteries.

"The Arizona is too big and important to risk a chance with a green crew," said one of the Arizona's officers. "The only sensible thing to do was to give us a trained crew, and the only place to get these was out of the active fleet."

The Connecticut, the sole remaining vessel of the pre-dreadnaught type now in the Atlantic fleet, is destined to go in the reserve as the fleet has been reorganized so far as its first fighting line is concerned, into an all-dreadnaught fleet. When the Idaho and Mississippi go into commission next year there will be 19 vessels of the dreadnaught class in the four active battle divisions of the fleet.

Scheme to Buy at Wholesale Price to Be Explained by Miss Carolyn Putnam Webber

A class in household management and co-operative buying is being planned by the People's club and the first meeting of the class will be held Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 1, at 3.30 o'clock, at which time Miss Carolyn Putnam Webber will give lectures on the importance of incomes, food values, nutrition of foods, planning of menus, marketing and buying.

The plan of the class is to buy groceries in large quantities and at wholesale prices. For example, 100 members of a class order 500 pounds of a staple grocery and each takes five pounds. In this manner the wholesale price with its delivery and a cash sale will be lower for each pound than when purchased in small quantities at the smaller store. This plan has been successfully carried out in other cities and has proven very profitable to the members of the classes.

Any housekeeper wishing to join can learn details regarding dates, amount of enrollment fee and all details by calling at the People's club rooms any evening between 7.30 and 9 o'clock.

An early enrollment is advised, as plans are being developed for this class the first of November is planned for the initial lecture. Regular attendance each Wednesday for eight weeks will be necessary to make it profitable, and the sole purpose of the club is to help the Lowell housekeeper manage a home and feeding a family on a moderate income or allowance.

SAILINGS CANCELLED

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. cancelled today all its sailings of steamers for an indefinite period. A week ago it was announced that the company intended to resume service between New York, Colon and Cartagena, Spain. The reason for cancellation is understood to be that the British government again has requisitioned the company's steamships. All of them were taken over by the government early in the war, but recently two of them were released.

GREAT BRITAIN AWAITS OUR ACT ON U-53

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The British government will not make any official representation to the United States concerning the German submarine U-53, said an announcement of its attitude by the American government, said Viscount Grey, secretary of state for foreign affairs, in the house of lords yesterday.

In a reply to a question concerning the attitude of the United States toward British patrols, Viscount Grey said that the United States admitted that British ships were exceeding their legal rights under international law, but that the American government complained of their presence on the ground of the irritation which the continued presence of belligerent warships off the coast of the United States naturally caused in a neutral country.

He declared that the United States had requested Great Britain very emphatically not to patrol off its coast, and said that instructions were sent to the British ships there to avoid causing any unnecessary irritation and to comply as far as possible with the American request.

Action of American Warships

"With regard to the U-53," the foreign secretary continued, "we do not know what steps were taken by the United States for patrolling its waters or in regard to her coming into port and securing information from newspapers."

"We do not know whether it is true that American warships got out of the submarine's way. That is a matter for the American government only, and we assume that government is making full inquiries."

"We also assume it will announce its attitude in due course; pending that, we do not propose to make any official representation on the subject of the submarine."

The question concerning the German submarine raid in American waters was raised by Baron Charles Beresford, former commander of the British home fleet; Earl Grey, former governor-general of Canada, and others.

Baron Beresford asked whether British cruisers were removed from American waters owing to American objections and, if so, what steps the government proposed for the protection of British vessels. He criticized the submarine reply as at least curt and said the American ideas of neutrality were curious.

U. S. Protests on British Patrol

Earl Grey wanted an assurance that the report that American commanders of destroyers had acceded to the request of the German submarine commander to clear out of the way and give room to blow up ships was untrue.

The foreign secretary in reply to Lord Beresford's question read a summary on what passed between the United States government and the British government on this subject since the war began and what the British understood the view of the United States government to be.

He recalled that on Sept. 14, 1914, the British ambassador telegraphed that the United States authorities had intercepted wireless communications from the cruiser Suffolk to New York asking for supplies and newspapers, and he informed us that the United States government considered that this would be making use of United States territory as a base for supplies and information as to shipping movements through the newspapers."

Viscount Grey said the proceeding was not repeated and no official protest was received, so far as he is aware.

AUTO TURNED TURTLE WOMAN KILLED

MRS. KEENE PINNED UNDER CAR AND CRUSHED TO DEATH AT BRIDGTON, ME.

BRIDGTON, Me., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Mary Keene, 39 years old, of Poland, Me., while riding in a automobile with Mrs. Herbert Pillsbury of West Bridgton, Me., was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when the machine overturned and pinned her to the ground. Mrs. Pillsbury, who was thrown 20 ft. from the car, was unhurt save for a number of slight bruises.

The two were on their way from West Bridgton to Bridgton and were pursuing along the new state road. Under the rear seat was a number of empty cream cans that rattled noisily as the machine rolled along. Mrs. Pillsbury felt uneasy at the continued rattle and reached back to see what the cans that they would not move about.

Mrs. Keene, who was at the wheel, turned to observe Mrs. Pillsbury arranging the cans. She lost control of the car and in an instant the car skidded along the smooth roadway and overturned.

KILLED MAN TO SAVE HIS OWN LIFE

MURDERER TESTIFIES THAT LAWYER FORCED HIM TO KILL MICHAEL GAIMARI

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Gaetano Montemagno, who shot and killed Michael Gaimari on March 8, 1914, testifying yesterday at the trial here of Michael Rofrano, a lawyer, accused of complicity in his crime, declared Rofrano not only was the instigator of the murder, but had warned him that unless he killed Gaimari he would "die the way we want you to kill him."

Rofrano at the time was deputy street cleaning commissioner of New York.

On the night of the murder Montemagno said he was accompanied by John Brondini, one of Rofrano's alleged lieutenants, who pointed out Gaimari to him and told him to shoot. Brondini tipped his hat to Gaimari from the opposite side of the street, and when the latter acknowledged the greeting, Montemagno shot him, he testified.

"I ran into a saloon after I shot Gaimari," asserted Montemagno, "and asked for a drink. I don't remember whether it was wine or beer. I didn't drink it."

Montemagno said he told Rofrano he did not want to slay Gaimari, and that Rofrano replied if he was not sure he

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

GREEKS APPEAL TO U. S. FOR PROTECTION AGAINST ENTENTE

ONE KILLED IN STORM AT MOBILE

SERIOUS FIRE IN HOLD OF BIG STEAMER AT NEW YORK PIER

ATHENS, Oct. 17, via London, Oct. 18.—After the demonstration here against the entente allies, during which a procession of several thousand persons marched to the American legation and protested against the landing of French marines, a delegation of six persons called at the American legation and presented resolutions asking the sympathy and protection of the United States against the encroachments of the entente powers. The spokesman said in English in presenting the resolution:

"Henry Clay's speech in regard to Greece's struggle for liberty, as well as one by Daniel Webster, said the struggle would have been made meaningless if the liberties of Greece had been subsequently lost."

The American minister, Garrett Drovers, promised to forward the petition to Washington.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Fire of serious proportions was discovered burning in a hold of the New York & Porto Rico steamship Brazos today, and it was believed that the vessel would have to be sunk at her pier to save her from destruction.

Officials of the company were investigating a theory that an incendiary fire was set while the Brazos was at San Juan, Porto Rico, during the dock laborers' strike since settled.

A sad case of a young girl who in spite of continuous supervision by social workers and officers of various associations had failed to benefit by their teachings was called to the attention of Judge Enright in police court this forenoon when Anna Nelson was arraigned, accused of stealing a scarf pin valued at $11. from Fred P. The complainant informed the court that he was walking home last Friday noon when he met the defendant and stopped to chat with her near the

An appeal was later made to the British authorities by the American consul general at London for the release of the boy as a matter of courtesy on the ground of the boy's youth and also for the fact that he was his aged mother's only support, and on June 15 the American consul general reported that the case had been submitted to the British admiralty for consideration, and nothing favorable to the boy's release has been heard since.

Shortly after 1.30 o'clock this afternoon an alarm from box 115, summoned a portion of the fire department to Aiken street near the corner of Hall, where a bale of cotton was burning in the centre of the street.

NOTORIOUS SWINDLER AGAIN IN TOILS

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The disappearance of the notorious Henri Rochette who was sentenced to three years' imprisonment in 1912 in connection with vast racketeer swindles, was cleared up by his arrest at Granville yesterday. Under the name of Georges Bismarck, Rochette enlisted in Paris as a motorcyclist in the first month of the war and was stationed at Amiens. The Rochette case was one of the most sensational in the history of the French courts. Rochette was arrested in 1903 charged with swindling on an enormous scale. His operations involved more than $20,000,000 and at his subsequent trial it was stated that some of the most prominent men in French public life had been either his dupes or his accomplices. A parliamentary inquiry was made into charges that Antoine Moinis, former premier, and Joseph Caillaux, former minister of finance, were exerting their influence to protect the promoter.

Rochette disappeared while out on bail and succeeded in reaching Mexico where, it was said, he was welcomed by Francisco Madero, then president, to whom he was reported to have rendered valuable services. The French government demanded his extradition but Rochette was warned in time and escaped. Since that time his whereabouts have been unknown.

The Rochette case was revived in 1914 when Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro, was shot to death by the wife of M. Caillaux. The shooting was the result of violent attacks made on Caillaux in the Figaro and among the charges

NORWAY REPLIES TO ALLIES ON SUBMARINES

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Reuter's Christiania correspondent says Norway has informed the entente allies that it does not recognize that it is its duty to prohibit passage through or sojourn in Norwegian waters of all belligerent submarines. The Norwegian note is in response to the memorandum of the entente powers to neutrals suggesting that belligerent submarines should be excluded from neutral waters.

The Norwegian government declared it considers it has the right to prohibit submarines designed for war purposes and belonging to belligerents from passing through Norwegian territorial waters or sojourning in them and said it made use of this right in issuing the royal decree of Oct. 15, under which belligerent armed submarines are forbidden to traverse Norwegian waters except in cases of emergency when they must remain upon the surface and fly the national flag.

The decree also provides that mercantile submarines are to be allowed in Norwegian waters only in a surface position in full daylight and when flying the national colors.

On the other hand the government does not find that it is its duty as against any of the belligerents to prohibit such passage or sojourn. Concerning commercial submarines the new Norwegian regulations impose no prohibition, it is pointed out, as far as concerns arrival or sojourn of such submarines under the conditions designated in the royal decree. The Norwegian government says care will be taken to see that commercial submarines which may arrive in Norwegian waters really bear the indubitable character of merchant ships.

Until experience has shown what difficulties may arise for maintenance of neutrality in consequence of the use of commercial submarines, the note continues, the question of issuing special new regulations for such vessels cannot be taken into consideration. In view of the generally recognized principles of impartial neutrality which were given clear expression in the introduction to the 13th treaty adopted at The Hague, the government says it is always necessary during the existence of war to avoid a change of neutrality regulations unless experience demonstrates the necessity of doing so in order to protect neutral states in their own rights.

Norway's position in some respects is similar to that of the United States which in replying to the submarine memorandum of the entente allies said that in its opinion "the allied powers have not set forth any circumstance, nor is the government of the United States at present aware of any circumstances, concerning the use of war or merchant submarines which would render the existing rules of international law inapplicable to them."

NATIONAL LEGISLATION TO BE SUPPORTED BY STATE LAWS SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—National legislation to be supported by state laws was suggested by the United States bureau of standards today as one of the first steps to standardize the country's gasoline output. A system of inspection, either national or state, was proposed, too, as necessary to safeguard the consumer's interest.

A statement issued by the bureau told of efforts by government experts to arrive at a successful standardization test and warned state legislative bodies to go slowly in settling tests when the proposed laws cannot receive the attention of technical experts. Satisfactory specifications will be hard to find under the best conditions, it is declared.

Political managers of all parties today expressed surprise at the big registration of women which had been estimated at only 300,000 for the entire state. If returns from outside of Chicago show the same enthusiasm among women to register, as in this city, it is estimated that 500,000 of that sex will be entitled to vote in Illinois for president Nov. 7.

The total registration of men and women in the entire state is expected to be more than 1,500,000.

Complete returns today from the registration yesterday, the last registration day before the coming presidential election, show that 504,467 men and 301,261 women are now enrolled.

understanding to the satisfaction of all interests.

Besides the consignments reported held in London American tobacco valued at more than $1,500,000 is detained aboard British ships and in warehouses at Danish ports on the charge that its shipment violated the shipping arrangements.

The interpretation applied to the arrangement by British officials was as much a surprise to officials here as it was to the American shippers. In her previous agreements for passage of shipments through the blockade line, it was declared last night, Great Britain never attempted to apply the doctrine of ultimate sale. The understanding here was that only a bona fide sale to European wholesalers would be required in the case of the tobacco consignments.

The regulation which stopped American tobacco shipments was issued on July 15 by the British trade department under general authority of the orders-in-council. It prohibited the importation of tobacco to Germany, or to German dealers in countries contiguous to Germany.

South America with American industry and American manufacturing methods, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce will soon begin a campaign in the larger cities with the exhibition of moving pictures.

John Chipman, Retired Sailor, Tells to His Friends an Interesting Story

In order that any man or woman may derive a full measure of pleasure and success from life, it is necessary that he or she should be possessed of health in mind and body. It is certain that the greatest thing in all the world is health, without it a man can scarcely do anything worth doing; he can accomplish little that is really worth accomplishing. Attention to health then should take the place of every other object; that which is necessary to secure it should receive consideration in preference to everything else. For instance, the new herbal stomach remedy, Plant Juice, which is gaining such a following in Lowell, where daily grateful people are testifying to its merits and recommending it to their friends.

Recently, the signed testimonial of Mr. John C. Chipman, a retired sailor, who lives now at the Sailors' Home, 500 Harbor, Quincy, Mass., was received. Mr. Chipman has sailed the seas for 60 years and is well known in all the harbors along the New England coast. He has hosts of friends who will be glad to learn of his recovery to health. He stated:

"For the past four years I was troubled with rheumatism, contracted while at sea, and I had terrible pains all over my body. I could not sleep at night on account of the pain and would walk the floor all night long many a night. My stomach was in very poor condition and I could hardly keep any food in it. I had such pains in my arms and shoulders that I could hardly move them. I had tried so many different kinds of medicine that I was very skeptical, as none of them ever did me the least good. When I heard so much about Plant Juice I thought I would try it, although I had little faith in its curing me. After taking it for several weeks I was greatly surprised at the wonderful results I obtained; I can now eat any kind of food and have a good appetite for my meals. I sleep well at night and the pains have left my system. I consider myself entirely cured, and am glad to recommend Plant Juice to all of my friends."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Dows Drug Store, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

DESERTED BRIDE MAINE TOWN IS WEDS WEALTHY FARMER WIPED OUT BY FIRE

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—As a result of advertising for a husband four months ago, Mrs. Viola A. Ling became engaged to a man who fled from town on the day that had been named for the wedding, leaving Mrs. Ling waiting at the church. But this desertion was not without compensation, for the story, published in various newspapers, found its way to Robert J. Bradley, Moretown, Vt. It excited his interest, caused him to write to her, then to visit her, finally to marry her, and last night Mrs. Bradley set off for Moretown to join the man whose name she bears.

Bradley, who is a wealthy farmer, married Mrs. Ling in East Boston last Saturday evening. The bride, who had been living at 5 Ottawa street, Roxbury, had some packing to do, and many good-bys to say to friends. But Bradley had business interests which made it necessary for him to return home at once. Mrs. Bradley completed her preparations for the journey yesterday morning and set out for Vermont last night.

"I am the happiest woman in the world," she explained to friends before departing. "I have had my troubles, but they are all ended now."

Four months ago she advertised in the newspapers for a husband. One man answered. He said he wanted a wife who could cook, and Mrs. Ling invited him to come to her home for a trial feast. He feasted to his heart's content for two weeks. Then on the day the two were to be married, the man departed without a farewell.

The story of the woman's misfortune was reported in the newspapers. Up in the little town of Moretown, Vt., Robert Bradley, a widower, read it. He was sympathetic and lonely.

So he sent an engagement ring and $20 to Mrs. Ling, telling her that if she would place her faith in him she would not be "left waiting at the church." The courtship by mail progressed rapidly, and last Thursday Bradley left his farm and came to Boston.

First he bought the wedding ring. Then he purchased the wedding gown, and he gave his bride a new set of false teeth. The marriage took place at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in the home of James Fraser, 8 Macbeth street, East Boston. Justice of the Peace Fraser performed the ceremony, and a score of friends joined in the celebration which lasted until midnight.

GORHAM, Me., Oct. 18.—Nearly every building in the little village of White Rock was destroyed by fire which started in a grocery store last night. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

Among the burned structures were the Maine Central railroad station, occupying a part of the Marshal Shepley grocery store building where the flames were first discovered; the John Martin grocery store, grain mill and dwelling; the farmers' co-operative grain mill and the postoffice. As the village has no fire fighting apparatus and a high wind was blowing, the residents were unable to check the fire.

HAVERHILL MEN APPEAL FROM COURT ORDER

SALEM, Oct. 18.—Notice of an appeal from the order of Judge Quinn of the superior court refusing a motion to quash indictments against Mayor Albert L. Bartlett and other members of Haverhill city council became known today. The papers were filed by counsel for the city officials late yesterday after the court had sustained the indictments charging failure to suppress a riot at Haverhill on the night of April 3. As a result of the appeal, it is expected the cases will not come to trial for several months.

PRAISES WORK OF RED CROSS ON BORDER

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Captain Edward A. Rushford of the Massachusetts National Guard medical corps, who returned yesterday from duty on the Mexican border with Battery A, urged Boston people to join the American Red Cross to show their appreciation of the efforts of the organization to better conditions for troops on the border.

"Tell them to speed up and join the Red Cross now," he said, "if they want to show any appreciation for what the American Red Cross has been doing for the comfort of the soldiers who left home to go with the flag to the border. I don't believe there is a military man who would not lend all his support and commendation to the Red Cross for its work in both peace and war."

"If there had been a real war we couldn't have gotten without the Red Cross aid. It is one of the important forms of preparedness. The home nursing activities of the Red Cross in training nurses in first aid and the making and storing of hospital supplies is of first importance."

"Even more necessary is the work of the Red Cross in civilian relief during times of great disaster. These disasters come more often than war and with much less opportunity for warning and preparation."

Speaking of the Greater Boston campaign for new membership he declared, "Boston must wake up if they want to equal the records of other great cities. If Boston doesn't want to fall down in this great movement, the people must respond to the call of the campaign and join the Red Cross now."

"I am going to help push the campaign myself. I hadn't been in Boston long enough to get the New Mexican dust from my clothes when Chairman Joy and Executive Secretary Nutter got in touch with me with a request that I lend my assistance to the work."

Mayor Child presided yesterday at a Red Cross meeting at the Newton city hall. More than 500 new members were pledged at the close of the session.

Radcliffe, Harvard, Tufts and many other schools have joined the campaign work and named student and faculty committees. Fraternity houses and college newspaper offices have opened enrolment stations.

WOMEN'S ASSO. ENTERTAINED

Mrs. A. G. Cunnock and Misses Eva and Grace Cunnock entertained the members of the Women's association of the Kirk Street church yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. G. L. Richardson, presided over the meeting. The program was in charge of the chairman of the missionary committee, Mrs. Edward Lyman and included the study of the first and second chapters of the new study book, "World Missions and World Peace." Papers were read by Mrs. Stearns, Mrs. Hoyt and Miss Mack and a dialogue was given by Miss Mary Lamson and Miss Helen Baugher, who were dressed in costume to represent the Greek and Roman churches. An informal reception to Mr. and Mrs. English followed the program. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a prolonged social hour enjoyed.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Irish question was again brought to the fore in the house of commons today with the introduction by John Redmond of a resolution criticising the system of government of the island. The resolution reads:

"That the system of government at present maintained in Ireland is incompatible with the principles on which the allies are fighting in Europe, and is or has been mainly responsible for the recent unhappy events and for the present state of feeling in that country."

Since Mr. Redmond gave notice of his intention to attack the government, the Irish leaders have held several meetings at Rathfriland, the residence of Mr. Redmond, in which the members of the House of Commons, who are in Ireland, have taken part. It is not desirable at the present time to discuss controversial matters of domestic politics.

The American people are being asked to put in peril the peace and prosperity the country is now enjoying under President Wilson by turning their government over to Mr. McAdoo, Mr. Hughes, and the organized band of incompatible elements which are supporting him," said Mr. McAdoo. "For two months they have condemned every act of the democratic administration in the most unbridled manner, but the American people are still without a definite answer from Mr. Hughes as to what they will do with the government if they get possession of it. The only definite thing we have had during the past year came from Col. Roosevelt, who said at Battle Creek discussing the Lusitania: 'You ask me what I would have done. I would have seized every interned German ship.'"

Mr. McAdoo then quoted Germany's demand for the return of the Lusitania because of seizures of German ships by that country and added: "Mr. Roosevelt's action would have resulted in war between the United States and Germany."

1917 INDIAN MOTOR CYCLE ARRIVES HERE

MAJOR IMPROVEMENTS ON NEW MODEL—GOOD WEATHER FOR AUTO TRIPS

After watchful waiting the 1917 Indian motorcycle has arrived at the Geo. H. Bacheider, Est., the local agency. This new model shows many improvements and refinements. New and graceful lines as well as increased power and speed are quite obvious. Among the other features are, the new and enlarged gasoline tank with a larger capacity, the triple stem forks which double the strength, the webbed vanadium steel frame, the lengthened gear shift lever which disengages with any least motion in gear-shifting, and the cradle spring frame which makes riding a real comfort. A few touches of black stripings do away with the too conventional plain red, and make neat paneling which makes the appearance. There is also another color which the buyer may choose; that of olive drab with black and gold stripings. It is claimed to be a most decided improvement over any heretofore attempted styles in the manufacture of motorcycles.

Every owner of a car should go somewhere at this time of the year even more than at any other season, and go as far as time will let him. And when riding in the country think your way through; don't be foolish and rush past the beauties of nature and the works of man. Every foot of land that you will pass once belonged to the Indians, to wilderness and desolation. Nature is now more beautiful than ever, do all that you can to see it, realize that it is yours, get acquainted with it. You'll never regret the time thus spent.

The Red Arrow Garage has assumed a novel title for the establishment, that of "A Department Garage." Yes, it does sound odd, yet it signifies completeness. Now one may go to this garage with the assurance of being properly catered to. Arthur Bourke feels now as if he can take care of any job that is put up to him, and has this one aim of satisfaction at all times in view. His sign of "Red Arrow" is his trade mark and by-word.

Napoleon Bilodeau continues with his new auto livery service for all occasions, social or business, using of course his new Indian six car.

During the past year the roadster type of car has gradually been changed from two passenger to three and four-passenger capacity, and this trend is noticeable in the new coupe models which are now being brought out.

The growing demand for a roadster type motor with carrying capacity of four has prompted the design of the many new models. In some, two passengers are comfortably accommodated on a large main seat. Then comes a driver's seat slightly advanced. In addition the fourth seat, a conventional folding chair lies close to the body when not in use or swings out as needed. Again, in others there are two divided seats for driver and com-

AUTOMOBILE QUESTION BOX

NOTE—In these columns every Wednesday we will give expert advice to motorists on how to repair and operate their machines. Automobile readers of THE SUN are invited to send in questions or problems they may wish to have answered. Such questions will receive attention in due time. Address all communications: Automobile Editor, Sun, Lowell, Mass. Communications must bear the signature and address of the sender, though not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Motoring Department, The Sun—The writer purchased a rebuilt 1915 Ford touring car about two weeks ago. While out riding the driver stalled the engine, and upon trying to crank same found it to be in gear—that is, the whole car moved forward when the clutch lever was thrown down. This was remedied at the time by screwing down the clutch lever screw which bears upon the cam operated by the emergency lever. However, it was necessary to remove the lock out from this screw in order to screw it down sufficiently to release the clutch. The other day the same thing occurred, but screwing down the clutch lever screw does not seem to help matters. If you will advise through your column what the trouble is I shall greatly appreciate the favor. H. G. C.

Ans. The solution to your problem is in the clutch lever screw. You may have screwed it down too far. Experiment with it until you get it right. If the screw is badly worn get a new one and try again. If you have had to remove the locking nut it may be placed on the lower end of the screw.

Motoring Department, The Sun—I have a 1912 four-passenger car with springs evidently designed for an ice truck. The rear springs are of the ordinary three-quarter style with six leaves to the spring two inches wide, the total thickness of which immediately over the axle is 3 1/2 inches. There is little or no flexibility to them with only the driver riding and only when there are six or seven passengers crowded into the car do the springs respond to a rough piece of road. Would it be practicable to take out a leaf or spring? If so, which would you advise, the shortest or one of the middle length, the long ones on bottom or half-length ones on top, or both? Would it help any to take springs apart and clean and lubricate them?

Ans. Your trouble is partly stiff spring and partly dry spring. Remove rust from each leaf and cover thoroughly with graphite grease. Replace, leaving out shortest leaf. If this is not sufficient remove middle leaf. It would not be advisable to weaken the spring further, as there would be danger of breakage when car is filled with passengers.

Motoring Department, The Sun—Can a person drive a car for owner, provided it is not for hire, and does insurance cover same if owner is not in car, car being insured in full? C. H.

Ans. According to New York state law any friend of the owner, 18 years or over, may drive the car with the owner's permission, if he does not do so for hire, whether the owner is with him or not. Unless it is distinctly stated in the insurance policy the insurance on the car does not cover any and every person driving it.

Motoring Department, The Sun—Will you please let me know of some remedy to waterproof a gray mohair top of an Overland car without changing the color, as same leaks very badly? H. J.

Ans. Inquire at any large supply store for the dressing you require. In doubt about it try it on some inconspicuous part of the top. We cannot recommend any special article on the market.

Motoring Department, The Sun—Why is the two-cycle engine no longer used on automobiles? If it is successful as a boat engine why not as an auto engine?

Ans. The two-stroke cycle engine does not have the range of speed of the four-stroke cycle engine. This is not a detriment in a boat, where one speed is all that is needed. But an automobile must be run at different speeds merely by operating the throttle. As the four-cycle engine speeds up it gains power. The two-cycle engine is best and strongest at low speed. As it speeds up too fast it begins to miss explosions. Many attempts have been made to remedy the defect, but none have attained any great success.

Motoring Department, The Sun—My car is equipped with demountable rims. Some people claim that the wheel should be jacked up before removing rim, and others that wheel should be left on the ground. Please tell me what is best to do when changing rims. T. V. D.

Ans. You evidently refer to loosening the bolts as it would be impossible to change rims with the wheel on the ground. It is best to loosen the bolts before jacking up the wheel, as the weight of the car twists the rim slightly and so frees it from any rust which may tend to hold it to the wheel. The wheel must then be jacked up in order to remove the rim. Always put graphite grease on places where wheel rim and demountable rim touch each other.

Motoring Department, The Sun—There is a sound like a squeak in my motor. It is not a knock, but sounds like one dry surface rubbing against another. The motor is hard to crank but does not seem to have lost any power. An early explanation would be appreciated as I have not dared to run the car since the noise developed. P. X. Z.

Ans. The noise is due to lack of oil on cylinder walls. Determine which cylinder it is if possible, by listening, but this is not important. Remove valve cap or spark plug, set piston nearly at top of stroke and inject oil around edge of piston. Crank engine and noise should be disappeared. The usual way is to pour half a teaspoonful of oil into each cylinder through the relief valves. This results in carbonizing the cylinders, plugs, and valves, besides leaving a trail of smoke after the car, and so is not to be recommended. Be sure to keep the oil at the right level in the crank case.

Motoring Department, The Sun—One of my friends has a set of auxiliary spark gaps on his car. They are set on the dash where they can be watched so as to tell if any cylinders are missing explosions or not. It is claimed that they make a better spark, if they are so good why are most cars not equipped with them? T. K.

Ans. They do intensify the spark slightly, but present systems give as hot a spark as is needed. They do not benefit a magneto system, as they add too much resistance to the circuit and so are apt to cause misfiring at low speeds. Using such a set of gaps adds to the complications of the wiring, and there are other ways of telling when a cylinder is missing explosions.

Motoring Department, The Sun—I had occasion to take off the distributor of my magneto the other day and noticed that one of the small carbon brushes was missing. Apparently the motor runs with full power and the corresponding cylinder does not seem to be missing explosions. If there is no difference in the results what harm will it do to have one or more brushes missing? If it makes a gap in the distributor will not one gap intensify the other? T. N. R.

Ans. If the cylinder does not miss explosions it is because the spring makes contact with the distributor arm or segment. This will burn away or break and the engine will miss explosions. If there is any gap in the distributor it will be too great for spark to jump when engine is running slowly, as the magnet does not then generate much current. The spark plug gap is set small on this account, and an additional gap in the distributor adds too much resistance. So replace brush as soon as possible. Also see answer to T. K. in this column.

HINTS

"Do not fasten chains too tightly nor to a spoke." Many a tire has been ruined by disregarding this advice. If a chain can creep it will wear the tire evenly. If it is fastened so that it cannot creep the cross links wear in one place and the shoe is damaged.

It has been well said that there is one set of bearing surfaces on a car which should never be oiled—the brakes. This is not strictly true, as a squeaking brake must be oiled, but with caution. Use castor oil in moderation until the squeak is stopped.

The traffic rule requiring cars to turn corners at four miles an hour is not merely to protect pedestrians, but is for your benefit as well. Turning corners at high speed strains tires, spokes, and axles, and may result in skidding, followed by an overturned car. So slow down and coast or go into second gear.

Do not wipe dust from your car with a cloth or piece of waste. It grinds the dirt into the varnish, and will ruin the finish in a short time. Have the car washed if you want the finish to last.

After you have ruined a few spark plugs by removing them with a socket wrench that just fits around the plug, and protects the cone from accident, it only costs a few cents and will pay for itself after it has been used a few times.

MISS LOBBAN TELLS OF HER EXPERIENCE ON TRIP FROM BERMUDA TO BOSTON

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Miss Bella E. Lobban of 121 Elliot street, Milton, returned home yesterday from a vacation trip to Bermuda that proved to be the most exciting of the several she has made. Miss Lobban was one of the nearly 200 American tourists who arrived on steamship Bermudian Monday. Telling of her trip back she said:

"We certainly got a real taste of war, and I must confess that I rather enjoyed it. Most of the returning passengers were Americans, and we would have had a larger list had not a number of intending passengers cancelled their bookings when the news of the presence in western Atlantic waters of German submarines reached Bermuda."

"We were told shortly after leaving port that the officers of the steamship had received a wireless from a British cruiser stating that a submarine was in the vicinity of our course. The captain at once steamed a zig-zag course that added some 200 miles to the ship's regular run and brought her to New York a day late, but caused the red-and-black smokestacks to be painted gray and all lights to be blanketed at night."

"We were also told that we were being convoyed by a British cruiser, although she was out of sight below the horizon. The true feeling that existed throughout the ship was reflected in the highly nervous condition of most of the women passengers, and even some of the men had a 'goose' fit when the word was sighted one day, and the word went around that it was the German U-37."

A DEPARTMENT GARAGE

Does this sound odd to you, Mr. Motorist? It may, unless you are already a Red Arrow customer, and do not know that we have combined under one roof, everything that a motorist can wish for. If he only stops for gasoline, oil or accessories, we can accommodate him. If he wishes to have a tire vulcanized, we have one of the best plants in the city for that purpose. If he wishes to have his car overhauled or repaired, eight expert workmen will do the work in the best possible manner. If he is having trouble with his radiator, fender or lamps, our new department will take care of him; and finally, if he wishes to store his car away, we have the largest space in the city devoted to that purpose.

OVERLAND PREVENTS DISASTER

Driving an Overland across the prairie a 50-mile clip, overtaking an engine running wild, and driving the Overland at the same speed the engine was making, enabling the engineer to leap from the motor car to the engine, was the feat recently performed by Miss Ada Taylor, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Taylor of Tenio, Wash.

The engineer and brakeman on the Badger lumber company's logging train were making a flying switch, the engineer slowed down his train and threw the switch himself. In passing over the frog the jar threw the throttle wide open and the locomotive took the Northern Pacific main line with a full head of steam.

Both the engineer and the brakeman started in futile chase. Miss Taylor saw the wild engine as it passed her home, and saw the men trailing behind. Realizing the situation she ran for her Overland car, picked up the pursuing engineer, and started after the speeding locomotive. Overtaking it she kept pace with it until the engineer was once more master of the situation.

An interesting meeting of the members of Local 19-A, I.R.E.W., Telephone Operators, was held last evening in the meeting room of the Telephone Association. Present at the meeting were Miss Lomenager, president of the Lawrence chapter, and five other members of that organization. Considerable business was transacted, and at the close of the evening an interesting address of unionism was given by Michael A. Lee, business agent of the Carpenters union.

A regular meeting of the members of S. H. Hines lodge, No. 6, P. O. was held last evening in Pythian hall, and present at the meeting were several visitors from Milford, Somersworth and Nashua, N. H. Starkey was appointed to meet the grand chamberlain at a joint meeting of the lodges of Merrimack valley to be held in Essex lodge hall, Lawrence, on Oct. 19.

President Louis St. Jean presided over last evening's meeting of the members of the C.M.A.C. and a feature of the evening was the presentation of 50 new names for membership. It was announced that at the next meeting, which will be held Nov. 7 at least 100 new members will be initiated.

Pitts' South Ends to Celebrate

Pitts' baseball team are going to have a grand winnow when they get together for an "all hands around" affair at Associate hall on Friday evening of this week. Success has been theirs throughout the season, and they now stand as the city champions and hold the trophies for same. They have many followers and supporters, and are, therefore, having this affair so that all may meet for a dance fest. Being champions at their game they could not afford to have anything out of keeping, so the Honey Boy Four will be on deck to furnish the merry vocal strains, in which game they are champions. Added to this, the popular players of Doyle's and Mear's orchestras will render the music for dancing. No doubt this will be quite a time for all who attend, and preparations are being made to accommodate a large crowd. This triple alliance of champions will stage the battle of music, merriment and dancing as a big time for all.

SURPRISING SUPPORT

Members of the Middlesex Women's club who gathered Monday afternoon to listen to a talk on current events by Mr. Edward H. Chandler, secretary of the Twentieth Century club, Boston, must have been a little surprised at his unqualified support of President Wilson. Last season, before a presidential campaign brought discussion to a head, Mr. Chandler was occasionally severe in his treatment of the president, but in the face of the bitter opposition he has been won over and he now uses his powers of reasoning and analysis and his convincing logic in support of the president. While avoiding the one-sided attitude of the purely political orator, Mr. Chandler brushes aside the trivial and the unjust and after examining the claims of both presidential candidates, comes to the conclusion that the country cannot do better than to return Mr. Wilson to Washington for the fourth year to come.

A few points brought out by Mr. Chandler deserve special consideration. Taking up the republican planks on the Mexican situation he said that the arguments of the republicans are merely for campaign purposes and that the day after election—should Hughes be successful—he would do about as President Wilson has done. "The only other alternative is war," he said, "and neither the people nor the politicians of any party want war."

Mr. Chandler also delved down to the jealousy and greed of business interests that underlie much of the criticism of the president. He showed how the power has gradually passed out the hands of the great corporations and how the people have a greater hand in the government than at any time in half a century. This, he said, may lead to mistakes and may be somewhat inefficient, but who would have the efficiency of special privilege instead of the government of a democracy?

Of the president's writing of notes he said that more people have read these notes and messages than have read the notes of any of his predecessors. This led naturally to the foreign situation, and Mr. Chandler commended the president for his stand for American interests, irrespective of the howls of all who are swayed by their zeal or their prejudices in favor of one side or the other of the warring groups. In the last analysis he based his support of President Wilson on "America First," which should be good enough for everybody.

BEWARE THE BONFIRE!

The permission of the fire chief is now necessary before anyone can burn leaves or other rubbish on the premises, but the law is not as generally known as it ought to be. So much for the official precaution, which does not put the responsibility of those who may make such a fire. During the last week there were two sad instances of death from burning, and in each case the clothing of children caught fire beside one of those outdoor bonfires. The greatest caution is necessary, and it might be well for those who contemplate burning up refuse to get in touch with the fire department and have some experienced person supervise the burning. Now that the dry leaves are piled up so profusely, it is a simple matter to start a fire that may have disastrous consequences.

It is also in order for hunters and walkers in the woods to heed the annual warnings against throwing away the lighted match or the cigar or cigarette stub. The government is paying a great sum for the supervision of the woodlands but too often a careless individual does a great amount of damage through thoughtlessness. We have been blissfully free from brush fires this season, and it behooves all to refrain from the obvious acts that may lead to loss of life and property. Beware the bonfire and the discarded match and stub.

RELIEF OF POLAND

Those who say that President Wilson ought to stop the war in the old world may find food for thought in his failure to get the rulers to agree on some scheme whereby Polish relief might be distributed. He has received replies to his letter from the rulers of all the warring nations, but they refuse to make the necessary concessions whereby Poland may be spared further starvation and suffering.

Though couched in the language of diplomacy the president's letter put plainly before the rulers the plight of Poland. They read "the death by slow or rapid starvation of millions of innocent people is so awful a fact that with an outcome should be averted if it is within the compass of human effort to avert it." To be sure it is within the compass of human effort, but the warring powers care little for the sufferings of the smaller peoples in their mad desire for victory.

Meanwhile America must stand by and watch Poland in her death agony while king and kaiser or their governments haggle over the terms of food distribution. The president promised the co-operation of our people to the hellegrants, but even in this side issue they are not willing to concede anything. How futile.

then, to hope that they would respond favorably to the offer of the president for peace mediation.

REGISTER NOW

If you are qualified to vote but have not as yet registered, this is your last chance to do so and tomorrow it will be too late. The first session for registration started at noon today and it will close this evening at 10 o'clock. If you register you may aid in the election of a president, a United States senator, a governor and other state officers. Whoever may be your choice, go to city hall this evening and register. If you have no choice, go and register and then look up the various candidates for the great offices. It is a most important business and it is your duty as an American citizen to take a conscientious part in it. If you as an American citizen neglect to register out of carelessness or cussedness, be consistent all the way through and do not express any opinion as to the choice of the country or the state at the coming election. As a purely American function it ought not to interest anybody who makes light of his citizenship—and the man who having the right to do so and refuses to register makes light of it in the worst way. Wake up. Go to city hall tonight and get on the list of voters.

WATCH THE BARGAINS

While all progressive stores run bargain sales now and then the real bargain time is between seasons and the prudent housekeeper will do well to watch the newspapers at the present time. The winter stocks are not fully in and the summer stocks are being taken out. Storekeepers do not care to carry over heavy lines of merchandise and whether in clothing, in household furniture, in great or little things there are many opportunities for wise buying. The enterprising merchant knows that the best way of cutting his wares to the attention of the public is through the medium of the newspapers, and every day "The Sun" has advertisements of bargains that it will pay readers to investigate. If you want a suit, or an overcoat or a hat or a dining-room table or a clothes basket or bath room towels or a thousand and one other things, just watch the advertisements of the stores in "The Sun" and you will save time and money. Here is one way to get a body blow at the high cost of living which everybody is kicking against.

DUMMER STREET

The city officials are significantly silent on that dubious improvement known as the "Dummer street extension," and indeed there is little good to be said of it. It may bring pleasure and some measure of profit to two or three or six individuals but it has brought nothing but disappointment to the general public who will have to pay a pretty figure for it before its completion. It is a city beautiful plan which did not beautify, and a convenience to traffic where no convenience was needed. If carried out as planned it will put two streets where there are more than enough streets already and when all is said and done it will not be worth a cent of what it will cost. The razing of the poor type of buildings has indeed given the city a fine site for a public building worthy of the municipal group adjacent, but if the park plan is carried out, even so far as Market street, the Lowell of the future may regret it.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

In his letters to the superintendent of police relative to the selling of liquor in clubs and the police supervision of places where a Sunday business is done, Mayor O'Donnell calls for rigid law enforcement, and if the superintendent is what he is supposed to be by the people, viz: acting head of the police department, the answer should be favorable. Just as the mayor may expect the superintendent to do his full duty, the police head may expect the same from the men over whom he has authority and it is up to him to see that they do their duty. The people are tired of controversy and they are tired of letter writing. What they want is the strict and uniform enforcement of the law against all who conduct licensed places.

(Reply brief and unsatisfactory.)

"Yes, they could, Mamma. They could let him to the track and let him—O-o-o-o-o. Mamma, look! What makes the automobile turn upside down in the water?"

(Reply evasive and inclined to be sketchy.)

"But, Mamma, where is the lady in the old mill? Did the big rats eat her up? Could rats really swim like that, Mamma?"

(Reply incoherent.)

"But I don't understand. Why didn't the man with the earrings kill her, Mamma? Wasn't his knife sharp enough?"

(Reply evidently unbelievable.)

"But does she always escape, Mamma? Aren't they ever going to kill her?"

Second Samuel, 1:20

"Tell it not in Gath, nor publish it within the streets of Askelon!"

So spake a prophet of an olden time, A century long dead and gone.

When in the haunts of daily life You nurse to tell a neighbor's shame

Or whisper softly of some doubtful deed,

Or stain with evil slur his name.

Have something more to justify your word

Than that old threadbare line, "they say,"

Or "I have heard," or that vampire "his said."

Those thieves that steal the truth away.

For these are subterfuges, scoundrels all.

That scandal-mongers hide behind.

And if you use them to speed on your tale

You are the scandal-monger's kind.

For honest men will set their honest names

To accusations they believe;

Tis only cowards (who may read you next!)

Who hide from blame they should receive.

So if you dare not justify your tale,

Recall the text of centuries gone.

And tell it not in Gath, nor publish within the streets of Askelon!

—Sara Beaumont Kennedy, in Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Good Old Adam's Aids

"The majesty of people, and women in particular," says the Newark Star, "do not drink enough water. Ice cold water, however, is not good for the system at any time."

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

People who are forced to stay indoors all day in an office or home drink too little water between meals, and then, in many cases, make the mistake of drinking too much water with their meals. A glass of water with each meal, preferably at the end, will aid digestion. To wash down one's food, however, is a very bad, although quite common, mistake. It is particularly hard on one's stomach, and that poor, overburdened organ is sure to resent it sooner or later. One excellent rule is to drink a glass of water just before going to bed and immediately upon arising in the morning. The plain everyday brand is better for this purpose than charged or carbonated waters. Water should be taken externally as well as internally as an aid to health. A cold dip or a sponge bath in the morning, providing one is strong enough to stand it without a shock, is a valuable stimulant to circulation and respiration, and promotes bodily activity and health."

consulted by those leaders who are bent upon getting a candidate in place of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, but he was sufficiently impressed with the possibility of Mr. Foss being named to make the above statement. At the recent primaries Mr. Riley polled the biggest number of votes of any of the democratic candidates and naturally his attitude on the matter will have considerable influence with the democratic state committee of which organization he was the leader for three years.

Judge Riley's determination to tear the party wide open if Mr. Fitzgerald should abdicate in favor of ex-Mayor Foss will undoubtedly have its effect on the final determination of the senatorship, which will probably be made today.

Judge Riley is not opposed to the nomination of Matthew Hale, but believes Mr. Fitzgerald should remain in the field.

The Moore Bible class of the Lawrence Street Primitive Methodist church met last evening at the home of Mrs. Greenwood in Newbury. Routine business was transacted, after which Miss Jennie Catherwood gave a reading. There were duets by Mrs. R. Catherwood and Mrs. Greenwood. Mr. Joseph Bailey was the pianist.

A light lunch will be served by the ladies of the church. There will be addresses by the pastor, Dr. N. W. Matthews of the Gosham Street Primitive Methodist church, and Mr. Charles Moore, moderator of the board of trustees. Mr. E. Kimball will preside.

RILEY FOR LODGE IF FOSS IS PICKED

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Judge Thomas P. Riley, democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor, served notice on the party leaders last night that he would not agree to the substitution of ex-Gov. Foss as the candidate for the United States senate in place of John F. Fitzgerald.

Judge Riley goes so far in his opposition to Mr. Foss as to say that if the latter gets the nomination he will take the stump in preference for Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

This is the ultimatum delivered by Judge Riley and which is expected to put the kibosh on further consideration of Mr. Foss. He said:

"I will never stand for Foss. If he is given the senatorial nomination I will stump the state for Lodge in preference. I would rather go down to ignominious defeat than to take that man after the shameful way he treated the democratic party. I wouldn't stand for Foss in this contest if he gave the democratic party all the money he had."

In conferences held yesterday the name of ex-Gov. Foss was very strongly considered. Martin M. Lomasney was reported to be in favor of the "Old Boys." In fact while the names of a number of eminent gentlemen have been mentioned the question of a candidate to take the place of Mr. Fitzgerald has narrowed down between Mr. Foss and Chairman Hale of the progressive state committee.

COUPLE INVITES WHOLE TOWN TO WEDDING

LORD AND LADY BOUNTIFUL CEREMONY AT BELLOWS FALLS, VERMONT

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Oct. 15.—Bellevue Falls was last night treated to a Lord and Lady Bountiful wedding. Richard Carlton Wood of 16 Center street, Roxbury, an electrician, and Miss Marion Knowles of Henshaw st. Fall River, were the central figures in the ceremony.

The couple arrived in town yesterday and aroused no more interest at the time than do the scores of couples with similar purpose who flock in every week. But it was not long before the merchants were aware that this couple was a little different than others. Hardly a store in town but received some share of the largess of the like and in one jewelry store $350 passed over the counter to the contented proprietor.

After completing a few additional purchases yesterday morning, the couple motored to Chester, Vt., whence they returned with Rev. F. C. Williams, an Episcopal rector. At every store at which they had made purchases here they stopped and extended an invitation to clerks and proprietors to attend the wedding ceremony last evening. Not satisfied with the list of guests, which comprised nearly 100, all the traveling salesmen at the hotel where the wedding was to be performed were also invited, and they after investing in new collars and shirts, got busy on their expense accounts.

After the couple had been married in the parlor of the hotel, every guest was invited to take a seat in a long string of automobiles which waited outside the door. Where they were going no one knew until the cavalcade drew up before a hotel in Walpole, N. H. Here an old-fashioned turkey dinner awaited the happy couple and their guests and met with its deserved fate.

"Spare no expense," has been Mr. Wood's motto during his stay in town and Bellevue Falls hopes it won't be long before his like appears again. It has no high hopes, however.

IRISH CONSPIRACY UNLIKELY LONDON, Oct. 15.—An indication that the government does not intend to have recourse immediately to conscription in Ireland was given in the house of lords yesterday by Earl Derby, under secretary for war.

In reply to a question he said that, pending a decision on the whole question, he would make an appeal for voluntary recruiting in Ireland, to which he hoped there would be a worthy response.

BATTERY WELCOMED BACK FROM MEXICAN BORDER

A hearty welcome was accorded the members of Battery C, 1st Battalion, Field Artillery, upon their arrival in this city from El Paso last evening. The real reception, however, was held in Lawrence where there was a parade, red fire, band music and cheering crowds.

Many friends were on hand to greet the men as the train pulled in at the Middlesex street depot at 8.25 o'clock and Mayor O'Donnell was one of the very first to shake hands with the Lowell boys and welcome them home. Later he went to Lawrence where he greeted them again and joined in the parade. The train stopped less than ten minutes in this city and in the short time allowed there were some home-coming scenes that had a tendency to give one a funny little feeling—and a good feeling too—in the region of the heart.

The starting of the parade in Lawrence was delayed for some time by the difficulties in the way of unloading the equipment and it was nearly 11 o'clock before the boys were ready to march. They were escorted by a group of former militiamen, a band and two drum corps.

The crowd of admiring citizens had a splendid opportunity to see the battery in full war regalia, with men, horses and outfit in that class fighting condition. Every man was trained down to fighting weight and looked in the pink of condition, tanned by the Texas sun to a hue that looks very much out of place in this part of the country in October.

Crowds gathered all along the line of march to greet the soldiers just back from the border. There was a reviewing stand filled with Lawrence city officials and others, and while the boys enjoyed the big fuss that was being made about their home coming, homes and dear ones were upmost in their minds and they kept up a lively pace knowing that the sooner they were home the sooner they would reach home.

The boys found a very generous spread awaiting them at the army and the scenes there were often pathetic, especially where mothers welcomed their sons back from the border and wives held up their little children to be kissed by their soldier-fathers.

As soon as the men reached quarters there was a grand scramble for the shower baths, as each looked as if he had been shoveling coal all day. All the men are wondering how soon they will be mustered out of service.

It was rumored in Lawrence that the soldier boys would march all the way to the army in Methuen and men and women were heard to say that it was a downright shame. But the fact remained that no such plan existed and the soldiers were taken in street cars from the corner of Essex street and Broadway.

PARADE IN WORCESTER
WORCESTER, Oct. 18.—Citizens of Worcester and adjoining towns united last night in a big reception for Battery C, 1st Regiment, Field Artillery, M.N.R., which returned to Worcester last afternoon, after a four months' sojourn at the Mexican border.

About 100,000 men, women and children crowded the streets to greet the boys of the city to witness the parade and many of them waited for more than three hours.

The battery had 180 men in line, while Cos. A, C and H were represented by a complete quota of men.

SAYS SARSON GANG DIVIDED HALF MILLION A YEAR

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—That for the last five years firebugs and corrupt insurance adjusters have been dividing more than $500,000 a year between them while the public has been sound asleep was one of the startling statements made by Mayor Curley in the course of an address before the Parkman Parents' Association of Forest Hills at Parkman hall last evening before an audience of nearly 200.

The mayor was discussing the power of public opinion in effecting reforms and the difficulty of arousing it to the degree necessary of undertaking them.

"I am certain that before they get through with these investigations they are going to discover that certain fire insurance adjusters were acting in collusion with the firebugs," declared the mayor. "If we can secure a sufficient number of indictments and send these men to prison for terms of 10 years it will do away with the tremendous fire losses that the people have been paying these last years and will make it safe again for a person to go to sleep at night."

The speaker said that one of the most numerous sources of fire loss was from clothing in closets. Investigation revealed that some persons were collecting $100 fire damages on clothing worth about $30.

"The situation was terrible," said Mayor Curley. "In the Salem street district there were 25 of these closet fires a week. The fire station in this vicinity was working night and day. The men were on the verge of nervous prostration. It was necessary to buy new horses for the station every six months."

He went on to tell how he had summoned the fire adjusters to city hall and got them to refuse to pay insurance on damage resulting from closet fires.

"And the wonderful thing was," declared the mayor, "that after that decision, the suspicious fires dropped from 15 a week to six in 3½ months."

STILL IN SERVICE

sorted that he had subscribed to it under duress and threat, were considered by the court as one, the same finding being returned in each.

The general question involved, according to the opinion in which Judges Blumhagen and Aldrich joined as the majority, is whether the national defense act of last June repeals provisions of the Dick law authorizing the president to use the organized state militia to help repel invasion and suppress insurrection; whether it is left altogether at the option of members of the state militia to sign a new enlistment contract, and whether, in the event of a refusal to sign, the militia is mustered out.

"It is quite likely," the court added, "that if the question were to be determined under rules of strict construction, the conclusion reached by the district court would be quite justifiable." The higher court held, however, that with the "vital question whether the military power of the government shall be potential and effective in the hands of the authorities or is to be contingent upon the option of constituent members of the military organizations," at issue, a liberal construction was needed.

"The act of 1916, being one for national defense," the opinion said, "and one for more effectual provisions to that end, and congress upon its passage, being under the weight of well known existing conditions of foreign invasion and in the presence of a recent invasion by an organized military body of armed men from a foreign country, the view is an impossible one, that congress intended to make it optional with the whole, or any substantial part of the organized military force of the states, to march or not, at will, in furtherance of the duty which they had previously assumed."

The court explained that it considered the statute only in respect to obligations of service under prior enlistments.

In conclusion the court held "that the so-called national defense act of 1916 was intended to give greater efficiency and effectiveness to the federal military force, through classification and standardization under military laws and orders based upon existing rights and obligations." The act, it continued, was not intended to operate to the end that members of the organized militia who did not see fit to enlist voluntarily for a longer term and assume the broader obligations which might require them to go beyond the national bounds, should be absolved from the duty of responding to the emergency call of the president. Nor was the act aimed to relieve the militiamen from serving a specified term within the country, the opinion stated.

It results, therefore, said the court, "that when the petitioner (Emerson) elected not to enlist for the longer term and the broader service, that he was still in the service for the federal purposes contemplated at the time he enlisted in the Massachusetts militia and took the oath to obey all laws and regulations for the government of the volunteer militia of the commonwealth, to obey the order of all officers and support the United States."

Judge Pitkin dissenting, said: "It seems to me that the act of June 3, 1916, is too positive and precise to be modified by construction in the manner attempted by the opinion of the court, and I therefore conclude that the decrees and orders of the district court should be affirmed and dissent to that extent from the opinion of the court."

Emerson and Lowell, with three other militiamen, Roswell C. Tenney of Springfield, J. B. Anselme of Brookline, and C. W. Jackson of Boston, obtained release from the mobilization camp at Framingham last August through habeas corpus proceedings in the district court.

ENGLISH STORES CLOSE AT 7
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Herbert L. Samuel, the home secretary, announced yesterday that, in view of the restrictions on lighting on account of raids and in order to economize on coal, the government purposes ordering all shops to close at 7 o'clock in the evening in winter, except on Saturdays, when the time for closing will be 8 o'clock. The order goes into effect on Oct. 20 and does not apply to the sale of intoxicants.

Mlle. R. M. LaCouture MODISTE

Formerly of 31 Butterfield Street is now located in the Sun building, where she will be pleased to meet her former clientele and the public in general.

In addition to her gown making, Mlle. LaCouture has opened a new department in which she will teach the famous S. T. Taylor system of dress-cutting, fitting, designing, dressmaking, tailoring and hand decoration of garments.

Mlle. LaCouture is a graduate of the S. T. Taylor school of sartorial arts of Cleveland and is highly recommended by Mrs. K. von Witzleben of the S. T. Taylor Co. of New York as an efficient teacher in those branches of sartorial arts.

Mlle. LaCouture has gained a reputation as an expert artist in gown making and her seven years' experience has properly fitted her to teach the art of garment construction from foundation to finish.

The S. T. Taylor system is a rule of actual measurements which can be applied to any change of fashions and the methods of instructions have been perfected during 65 years of continuous successful teaching. To obtain good results in garment construction it is absolutely necessary that a student of this foundation must first be cut, as it is upon this that the design is built and it is highly desirable to become as expert and efficient in the art as possible. The instructions given by Mlle. LaCouture will fit one upon completion of the courses to enter the dressmaking and designing field either for commercial or private purposes.

In the classes the pupils will receive individual instructions, and the lessons will be made so clear, plain and easy to understand that the pupils however unskilled at the start will be led step by step to a full understanding of each detail of the work.

For further information Mlle. LaCouture will be pleased to have the ladies of Lowell and vicinity call and she will be pleased to explain this new department in full.

EXHIBITS.—Mlle. LaCouture keeps on display a line of models, and is prepared to fill orders for planned paper patterns in stock sizes or cut to individual measures. Subscriptions taken for Le Bon Ton. Tel. 1081-J.

THE SANDSTORM SCORES U. S. FOR RAISED THINGS YESTERDAY

"For do win" she blow talk hurricane, "Blimey she blow some more."

Said Dr. Drummond in one of his long-lived French-Canadian dialect poems.

It was like that yesterday. Mr. J. Sandstorm Barons was on a rampage; he was out to blow himself to an enjoyable time. He did, and Jussive Bluffs, where the big sand dunes are, is still to be heard from.

He blew strange eddies around the corners in the shopping district, causing the Misses and Mrs. Lowell to perform poses plastique and some not so picturesque.

And to conform to the fashions of all high coast of living things, lingerie went up.

"Hush!" "Well it's so."

Didn't Mr. A. Rudolph Rubberneck have to go to an oculist for treatment, and didn't the doctor say, after removing a foreign object, that Mr. J. Sandstorm Barons' eyes were so sore from the blowing of the sand that he was suffering from severe eye strain?

Sure he did. Then the doctor said "5 please."

And Mr. Rubberneck forked it over and said "It was worth it, doc."

On Central bridge Mr. Uriah Updyke breezed in carefree abandon and an atmosphere of things spirituous.

His gaze fell upon the river. "Goodness gracious," exclaimed he, "what the scenery jump!"

It was all of that, for Mr. J. Sandstorm Barons was blowing with the Merrimack. As Mr. Updyke gazed in wonder at the boisterous water (more water than he had looked upon in many moons) a slippery, shiny, silvery fish smote him upon his favored brow.

"Gosh!" exclaimed Mr. Updyke in amazement. "That's the first proof I ever had that any fish ever did have its habitat in that river. I had heard Simon B. Harris says so and now I knew that Simon knew what he was talking about. But Simon nor no other member of the Lowell Fish and Game association ever had occasion to fish in this manner."

And Mr. Edmund Fiddlesticks, a well known resident of Pawtucketville, upon being interviewed said:

"When I was a young fellow a fortune teller told me that I should be very successful in real estate. Up to now I hadn't accumulated much in that line, but today I had enough real estate of all sorts forced upon me to make quite a holding. In fact I feel like a corner lot."

"However, I'll sell it cheap," continued Mr. Fiddlesticks, as he continued to dig himself out.

Some wind and dust?

Yes.

NINE PERISHED BRUTAL DOUBLE MURDER IN SHOP FIRE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Two more bodies were found today in the fire-swept ruins of the Oakes Dry Goods Co.'s plant in Queens borough, bringing the number of victims up to nine. The dead, of whom six were young women, include Harry C. Cook, 42 years old, treasurer of the company, and the chief bookkeeper, three assistant bookkeepers, the telephone operator and three stenographers.

Investigators today expressed belief that those who perished perished in an effort to save the company's books, which were found preserved in a safe and were then overcome by acid fumes, before the flames reached them. The property loss is estimated at upwards of $170,000, including that incurred by the Astoria Veneer Co., whose pier, loaded with logwood, was partly destroyed.

In addition to the office buildings, five one-story storage buildings of the Oakes company were destroyed. From these buildings the fire spread to the Astoria veneer mill and lumber yard, where many thousands of feet of lumber were destroyed.

The police have learned that an electrician at work on the first floor of the dye-making plant, making repairs to the electric light fixtures, dropped a ladder on a jar containing chemicals, which burst into flames.

There were six young women and three men on the second floor when the fire began. Not one of them has been seen since. A steel stairway led from the upper floor to the first floor on the inside of the building. There also were two iron fire escapes and one steel stairway escape on the outside. A half-dozen windows were located close to where the young women were at work, and it would have been a drop of only 16 feet to the street. The authorities believe the employees were suffocated by chemical fumes and were unable to attempt escape.

AND ATHLETICSBRITTON HOLDS
TITLE

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Jack Britton, the world's welterweight champion boxer, successfully defended his title in a 12-round bout with Ted Lewis of England at the Armory A. Lewis, who was, however, squeezed out of the decision by the narrowest margin. Referee Larry Conley of South Boston, officiating in his first world's title event, awarded the champion the verdict unanimously, after one of the best welterweight bouts witnessed in a local ring in many a day.

There was action in every round, both boxers displaying better form than they ever showed before in a Boston ring. In particular was it true of Britton. The latter fought like the champion that he is, and removed whatever idea existed that he was not a real title holder. Fighting as he did last night, it will take a great man to bring about Britton's downfall. It was the first fight that Lewis has had since his return from South America, and he fought a remarkable contest, considering the fact that he had not been in several months in the ring.

Both boxers appeared a trifle fleshy, and were easily well above the stipulated welterweight limit. However, they were in good condition, and it was well for both that they were, otherwise a knockout would have undoubtedly occurred long before the 13 rounds were over.

Only the remarkable skill and science that Britton possesses saved him from what appeared defeat in the opening round. The bitter feeling that exists between the pair was shown immediately after the bell rang on their contest.

Lewis sailed after Britton like a cyclone and before the fans realized what was going on Britton was never so near to a knockout in his career. Lewis rained left and right faster than the wind could follow in the initial frame, and more than half the audience expected to see the contest end momentarily. In his anxiety to score a quick and impressive defeat, Lewis swung himself clear of his feet with a right hand blow labeled a defeat, only to miss and slip down in a neutral corner.

Despite the heavy attack from Lewis, the champion was cool and collected under the rapid fire onslaught and before the round closed had found his bearings.

BOYLE TO MEET
LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION

Phinney Boyle, the clever local boxer, may soon hold the lightweight championship of New England. He has been matched to meet Harry Carlson of Brockton, present title holder, in a 12-round bout at the Unity club.

PHINNEY BOYLE

Lawrence, October 26. Each man is to weigh 133 pounds, ringside.

When Boyle won the decision from Willie Jones of Brooklyn last Friday night several clubs attempted to sign him up with some fast youngsters. His manager, Hector Melanes, desired to match Phinney against his best boy available however and last evening Jim Crilly of Lawrence clinched the match with Carlson. Both boxers have been training for a few days as the match has been hanging fire and the managers were only waiting for details to be straightened out.

Carlson is a great favorite in Boston as well as being the idol of Brockton fans. He has recently defeated Howard Melas, Freddie Velle and Matty Baldwin former lightweight champion and many others. He lost a decision at the Arena to Frankie Callahan a few weeks ago. Boyle and Carlson boxed a 12-round draw in Lawrence a year ago. The Brockton boy has come along fast in the past year or eight months and has been meeting all kinds of boxers. On the other hand Boyle has been taking things easy, his bout last week being the first one he has engaged in since spring. He showed himself to be in fine condition, however, and Carlson will undoubtedly have a tough contender.

The Champ proved himself able to claim the title in his hard bout with Ted Lewis.

Harry H. Dahman, Harvard's football captain, is to join the boxing team at Harvard after the gridiron season. It is believed that he needs boxing, next to football, to keep himself in condition.

Jack Coombs' remarkable pitching this season has been solved. He wears more straps and braces than any other man in the game, reads a report.

Residents of Lacombe, and all nearby New Hampshire towns, have nothing to say about the National commission. The "big fellows" prevented the Red Sox champions from playing an exhibition game in the White Mountain state yesterday.

LATEST REPORT HAS BILL
CARRIGAN A BANKER

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 18.—Bill Carrigan, who recently led the Boston Red Sox to their second world's championship, is to become a banker.

That is one of the several reasons given why he retired from the game at the close of the world series. Bill owns a large block of stock in the First National Bank of Auburn, and while his holdings are not sufficient, it is said, to control the bank, he is understood to have formed an alliance with other stockholders, some of whom are said to be located in Boston, which will virtually give him the control.

When the bank's board of directors meets Monday it is expected Carrigan will be named as a director. Bill is not saying much and neither is his partner, John P. Callahan, but it looks certain that it will be Carrigan the banker now instead of Bill the ball player.

Jimmy Gardiner, the former Lowell boxer, will try to make a comeback. Jimmy who has not entered a ring in the role of a boxer for over two years is now training hard at Diamond Hill, Rhode Island, and he believes that he will be able to regain his old time form. He says that he is feeling better than at any time in his career and when he takes off a little more weight he will be willing to meet the top men in his class.

Jimmy's training camp is located on the farm of his brother, Billy, just outside of Providence, R. I. He has been there for a couple of weeks but did not make any statement relative to his attempt to come back until he was absolutely sure that he could get back into condition. Jimmy will probably remain on the farm for a few weeks longer and then go over to New York where he expects to appear before several clubs. His last fight was in June, 1911, when he was defeated by Frank Kille.

Gardiner Brackets of this city, nephew of Jimmy Gardiner, left Lowell today to join his uncle at Diamond Hill. Brooks will spend the next two or three weeks getting into shape and then he will be ready to meet some of the best heavyweight. He will probably start in New York state, where he had such good luck on his last trip.

Gardiner Brackets of this city, nephew of Jimmy Gardiner, left Lowell today to join his uncle at Diamond Hill. Brooks will spend the next two or three weeks getting into shape and then he will be ready to meet some of the best heavyweight. He will probably start in New York state, where he had such good luck on his last trip.

Jimmy's training camp is located on the farm of his brother, Billy, just outside of Providence, R. I. He has been there for a couple of weeks but did not make any statement relative to his attempt to come back until he was absolutely sure that he could get back into condition. Jimmy will probably remain on the farm for a few weeks longer and then go over to New York where he expects to appear before several clubs. AMBITION HELPS
TY COBB TO KEEP

Were the youngest baseball enthusiast in these United States to be asked "Who is the greatest ball player now in the game?" the answer probably would be made without a second's hesitation, "Ty Cobb."

There are few who would find fault with such an answer, for richly indeed has the famous Georgian earned his fame. He has risen to the heights through sheer determination. He had the natural ability to begin with, but more than that he had the will to succeed. Like thousands of other stars who flash in the baseball firmament for a while and then disappear into mists, Cobb might have steered a middle course, but then there would have been no Ty Cobb.

That relentless determination, instilled into such a man as George Sisler, that great little player of the Browns; loaned to Tris Speaker, the wallowing, peana of the Indians; or to Shoeless Joe Jackson, Cobb might have the battle of his life to hold his place in the sun. All these men have at least as much natural ability and Sisler stands forth as the most versatile player in the major leagues today.

Jimmy Gardiner Trying to Make Comeback

IS IN TRAINING AT BROTHERS FARM IN RHODE ISLAND—GARDINER HOPES ALSO IN CAMP

Jimmy Gardiner, the former Lowell boxer, will try to make a comeback. Jimmy who has not entered a ring in the role of a boxer for over two years is now training hard at Diamond Hill, Rhode Island, and he believes that he will be able to regain his old time form. He says that he is feeling better than at any time in his career and when he takes off a little more weight he will be willing to meet the top men in his class.

SWIMS ASHORE WITH BRIDE AFTER WRECK

Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Church
Adrift All Night Off Port-
land—Thrilling Experience

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 18.—Ralph Church and his 17-year-old bride, who drifted eight hours Monday night in a boat in which the engine refused to work, were cast ashore on Long Island within half a mile of their cottage and he swam ashore, holding his wife in tow, just at dawn yesterday.

There were no sails in the boat and the one oar broke and went awry when young Church tried to shape a course after the engine balked. They were swept through Hussey's Sound and went toward the open sea Monday afternoon. When the tide came in they were piled on the rocks, the boat was smashed and they were cast overboard.

Capt. Bert Johnson, father of Mrs. Church, gave warning when the young couple did not return home in the evening and half a dozen crews searched along the inside passages and in the coves for the missing pair.

A 1916 JEWETT STYLE

When Grandmother Was a Girl

The Jewett Piano was even then a favorite in the homes of musical people in New England. It was a fine example of the type of piano-forte in use at the time, and Jewett Square Pianos (like the one in the picture) built in the early seventies are still in excellent condition and are frequently taken by us in exchange for the later modern style Jewett Pianos.

The JEWETT

owes three things to its glorious past

1. The splendid stamp of the creative genius of W. H. Jewett impressed upon it at the first, which has guided its modern development to such a high point of perfection.
2. A remarkable and convincing proof of its reliability and durability.
3. Thousands of friends among musicians who have played the Jewett Piano and know at first hand of its superior tonal qualities.

Before you buy your piano find out why more Jewett Pianos are sold today in New England than any other make of equal cost.

MAN IN THE MOON

The hunters' moon rode high in the heavens when a friend and I arrived at the camp of Jim that is on the shores of Lake Pawtuckaway, Nottingham, N. H. We were prepared, as we imagined, for a moon hunt, but found long before the small hours of morning that we were finding a place for our horse and carriage, which we had chartered at Raymond we were soon eating hungrily of the appetizing things Jim had prepared for us—fish chowder, a side of beans and hot coffee.

Some time before we had made arrangements with Jim for this moon hunt and Jim was an experienced hunter at that game. While eating and before a time after, Jim, who once had been a professional ball player, regaled us with interesting reminiscences relative to his baseball career and also whetted our appetite for the hunt before us with many a tale of coons galore which had rewarded him and his companions of the hunt. About 9 o'clock we sallied forth in sweaters and rubber boots and followed our trusty guide. In a short time we arrived at a farm house where lived two young chaps who were to accompany us. Two dogs that were lying in the kitchen rose up as we entered, wagged their tails, pranced around and emitted long howls, which denoted plainly that they knew what was going on. There was more preparation. Out in the barn a horse was harnessed and hitched into a two-seated wagon, and as there were five in the party, five lanterns were brought forth and stowed away for future use. One fellow put his double-barreled shotgun in the wagon. We piled in, dogs and all, and we were off for the hunting grounds, which they said were a few miles distant—a locality particularly good for bagging several good fat coons. We followed the main road for a time and then taking down some bars we turned in and followed a lane leading down through woods and fields and at last stopped at a deserted old house, hatched, and blanketed our horse, hunched our lanterns and set forth. We tramped through an open field to a wall on the other side of which a big corn field stretched away until it seemed to merge in the shadows of the dark woods beyond. Here the dogs were loosed, and needed not their master's injunction to "seek 'em"—they were off on the instant with tails in air and noses to the ground. "We'll wait here a bit," quoth Jim as he took a pull at a flask of cold coffee that we didn't wait long. There were coons in that cornfield when we approached and sensing trouble were even then scurrying for safety. They left plenty of tracks, for soon the dogs informed us that they were on them. If we had begun to feel rather chilly in the crisp October air we forgot about it when the dogs began to bark and, glowing with excitement, we dashed, lanterns in hand, through the corn field, tumbling over pumpkins and tripping over vines. The coons which the dogs were after had gone into the woods and we, following after, in a few moments stopped under a good sized oak where the dogs were barking furiously, which told us plainly enough that there were "coons up a tree," but we couldn't see 'em. They were up there and it was up to us to get 'em down dead or alive. The chances were greatly against the coons and, being naturally soft hearted myself, I couldn't hold thinking how the five men standing beneath the tree were scarcely less murderous in intent than were those two dogs. No time, however, was wasted in moralizing. Since the moon was now shining brilliantly in a cloudless sky and making objects plainly visible a short distance away, the lanterns were extinguished and one of the farmer boys began to climb the tree. Presently he called: "There are two of 'em up here anyway—don't see any more. Watch out!"

There wasn't any more. The happenings of the next ten minutes would certainly have made a hit in the movies. The boy climbed to the top of the tree and getting above the coons succeeded in finally dislodging them; and as they struck the ground two men and two dogs met them. I don't reckon in the two years from the big town for they did little more than jump around and keep out of the way. In a short space of time all was over and two dead coons lay upon the ground. One of them put up a fierce fight and gave one of the dogs a good bite. During the scrimmage at one time Jim, a dog and the coon were rolling on the ground together and I thought Jim was trying to catch the coon with his hands—just as Uncle Sam's boys did at San Juan hill to the Spaniards—but afterwards learned that he was knocked down by the dog and coon and had had hard work getting on his feet. So we had two fat coons bagged for the other farmer boy had got in his work on the other. Two coons they said was a good night's work of itself but it was proposed, since it was but one o'clock a. m., to see if we couldn't get a few more before morning. The dogs, nothing loath, again went nosing around and soon we were told that there was likely to be something doing directly. We found the dogs under a tree at least a quarter of a mile from the scene of the recent kill. This time it was an old coon and two young ones. The old one fell before a shot from the gun, while the two young ones fell easy prey to the valiant attack of five men and two dogs. It was a snub, but last water Jim conceived a notion which he declared "a sure cure" for the prevention of a cold, and after partaking of a light feed, during which Jim brought out the salient features of our night's exploits and complimented us both for our coolness on the firing line, we turned in for a sleep that lasted until 10 in the morning. Getting up and having a good bath and rub-down we did ample justice to a breakfast of bacon and eggs, a side of beans and hot coffee. As we didn't have to return home until afternoon we went out on Pawtuckaway, its water gleaming in the bright morning sun and reflecting in its depths the green, purple and gold of its wood-fringed shores, while Jim was engaged in the more prosaic occupation of skinning and dressing the two coons destined for Lowell. We bade farewell to Jim and Pawtuckaway which has proven to be a long one, for this moon hunt took place early in Pres. Taft's administration, (and Bill, you know, loved to eat coon.) How we brought these coons to Lowell, how they were rendered eatable by a chef skilled in that sort of thing, how in the bachelor apartments of a former member of the Rod and Gun club a party of good men and true did eat of those cooked coons and pronounced them good, are matters which may still be recalled by those who participated and who still survive should

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

DUKE OF ORLEANS WANTS MARRIAGE ANNULLED

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The Duke of Orleans is about to apply to the court of Rome for the annulment of his marriage to the Archduchess Marie Dorothea of Austria, according to the Figaro. The duke contends that the marriage was not contracted on the Austrian side in accordance with all the requirements of ecclesiastical law.

The Duchess of Orleans won a suit for separation in January, 1914. It was reported that she charged the duke with neglect owing to the fact that she was childless. At the outbreak of the war the duke, in sending back the insignia of the Golden Fleece to the Austrian emperor, wrote that his marriage had been the curse of his life.

RECEPTION TO SECRETARY
Miss Frances E. McNair, who recently came to this city to take the position of general secretary of the Y.W.C.A. was tendered a reception in the rooms of the association last evening by about 100 members of the organization. The program included musical and other entertaining numbers and those who took part were as follows: George S. Drew, Mrs. Drew, Miss Hazel Call of Boston, Camp Euka girls and others. The evening's program was in charge of Mrs. C. T. Upton, while refreshments were served by Mrs. A. G. Morrison and Miss Ethel Everett.

At the training course in social service held in the afternoon Robert F. French, president of the board of trade, spoke on "The Woman in Industry in Lowell." Following the lecture a gymnasium class in charge of Miss Washburn was held.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Bobby Heath, who appears in the "Girlish Revue," at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, has the fascinating knack of centering attention on himself. Bobby Heath writes songs, and he has many popular merits. The six young women who assist in the production are very pretty and add not a little to the success of the show. All together they are a rare good entertainment. Franker Wood and Bessie Wyde, an agile young man and a very blonde young woman, give us a lot of fun in their comedy sketch, which is made for laughing purposes only. The twain are not unknown in this city and they are always sure to make their friends smile. Frances Hooper and Herbert Marbury, dancers par excellence, exhibit classy dancing and a lot of new and original moves. Their dancing is very much liked. Kitner, Taylor & McClay, a singing and comedy trio, are surprisingly good. They have a comedy vehicle, but make the most of it and emerge as one of the best features of the bill. Deszio Ratter, in his wrestling specialty, is literally a scream, and Gene and Delia Muller, who are in the aeroplane hoopers. Of special interest is the concluding chapter of "Gloria's Romance," with Billie Burke featured. It is a fitting climax for a great picture serial. Good seats for all performances may be obtained in advance. Phone 28.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
"In Walked Jimmy," the comedy dramatic success of the season, which is the offering of the Emerson players in the Opera House this week, is one of the biggest successes registered in this city in many years and Ivan Miller, the popular leading man of the Emerson players is scoring the biggest hit of his career in the theatre.

Seldom has Lowell seen such a splendid play so splendidly produced and the advance sale of seats indicates one of the biggest weeks ever known in the city.

The play is delightful. It tells the story about Jimmy—whose identity is unknown until the last act—who comes to the life of John Trelle and the factory of the Cinderella shoe concern when Trelle is about to die and his life because he has been a failure in business. Jimmy "bluffs" town and makes the people believe that the concern is doing so much business that it is unable to handle it all. The play is a great story of love, laughter and thrills that will appeal to the emotions of all classes of theatregoers.

Ivan Miller is great as Jimmy and his acting is indeed the best exhibition that Lowell has seen in a long time. Mr. Miller plays the part with all the vim and feeling that the author intended. A better characterization of the part can scarcely be conceived. Inez Ragan as Kitty Blake is charming. Jimmy's admirer, Bobby, is played by Billie Vincent, does very well as Arnold Baker. James T. Galloway as Trelle gives a splendid portrayal of the character. Marion as Mrs. Schmidt and Gertrude Shirley as Delia furnish many laughs. David Baker, Ben Hadfield, Ernest East, Frank Wright, Gladys McNeil and other members of the company play their parts finely. The scenic production is of unusual beauty and one of the best given since the coming of the Emerson players to Lowell.

Now is the time to secure seats. Make reservations early. Phone 261.

It is a play for the youngsters and the grownups and the crowds this week will break all records for big successes in this city. Secure your seats early to avoid any chance of disappointment.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"The Birth of a Nation" which is now playing at the Merrimack Square theatre is the most remarkable attraction of recent years in American stage annals. It uses 15,000 people to tell its story and 3000 horses and their quota to its bigness. The epic links history and romance in a way never attempted before. Its basic scenes are based on some of the most stirring events in the nation's development and these are contrasted with human appeals and family interests which are after all the essentials of true drama. Great battles of the Civil war are fought before your eyes. Lee surrenders at Appomattox. Lincoln is assassinated as actually as the scene took place fifty years ago in Ford's theatre, Washington. The south before and after the war is pictured in its most interesting phases; wild rides of the Klansmen lend a dash and spirit to the performance. All remains exactly as it was given originally in New York City and Boston when the marvelous picture astounded all and created more comment than all the plays that have been seen in a decade. It is a picture in a lifetime one that will in all probability never be duplicated and for that reason should be viewed by every man, woman and child in this city. One who has seen it is never to be forgotten and since the Merrimack Square theatre has been crowded daily during the past two days for this remarkable spectacle which will continue for the rest of this week it would be wise for all who can to view this gigantic production as early in the week as possible. Make it today. No seats reserved.

There will be two performances daily, the matinees starting promptly at 2 o'clock, while the evening sessions will start at 8 o'clock. The patrons are requested to reach the theatre in plenty of season to be seated before the opening of the mighty production.

MANSFIELD CONTINUES ATTACK ON GOVERNOR

Frederick W. Mansfield, Democratic candidate for governor, spoke at open air rallies in Westford, Ayer, Pepperell, Shirley and Groton last night. The candidate continued his attack upon Gov. McCall for failure to aid in constructive action on the milk question. Mr. Mansfield also attacked the governor on his pre-election promises, which he said had not been fulfilled. The Democratic candidate stated that he proposed to continue asking these questions until they were replied to.

To Attract Farmers

Mr. Mansfield maintained that these pre-election promises were given out especially to attract the vote of the farmers of the state, and inasmuch as the Democratic candidate proposed to wage his campaign along the lines of the milk question and the extreme position in which the railroads of the state had been placed, both questions dealing more or less directly with the farmer, a reply would be necessary so that the people of the state would know which candidate for the governorship was worthy of their support. Mr. Mansfield in the course of his remarks stated that he had never made a promise in his entire career that he had not fulfilled, and this record was one which he proposed to maintain throughout his life. Therefore, any promises which the candidate made before election would be fulfilled by him when elected governor on Nov. 7.

Mr. Mansfield said in part:

Before you were elected, Governor McCall, you declared in many different speeches that you believed in encouraging agriculture and that necessary laws to that effect should be enacted. What have you or the republican legislature done to carry out this policy? You stated that an immediate settlement of the milk problem, which should be just to the farmer and to the consumer, was necessary. What have you done to carry out this policy? You promised to deal energetically with the problem if the people elected a republican governor and what have you done to substantiate this promise? You promised to open the Boston milk market to producers and to have weekly lists published containing quotations on milk the same as other farm products. What have you done to carry out this promise? You promised to hold conferences with farmers and milk producers in an attempt to solve the milk problem so that the farmer would get more money for his milk and the consumer would have to pay less. What have you done to keep this promise? You promised that the republican legislature would grapple with the question of what becomes of the excess being paid for milk by the consumer over what the farmer receives. What have you done to keep this promise?

Demands Answer

I demand answers to all of these questions, Governor McCall, and I will keep urging them upon the stump until they are answered. I think that not one of these promises has been kept, and that they were only made before election in order to attract the farmers' votes. I charge that you even refused to send messages to the legislature when you were asked to do so by those representing the best interests of the farmer and milk producer of the state. "The milk problem is a very serious one, and of the most vital importance to the commonwealth. It is only a state of affairs which is only a part of a far greater problem, and that is the decline of agriculture. If that state is to remain prosperous and the government secure, it is absolutely necessary to have flourishing and prosperous farms. Prosperous farms are out of the question unless the soil is fertile, and for this purpose it is absolutely necessary to keep the cattle upon the farm. Even if the milk could not be sold, it would have to be fed to the cows. It would be better for the farmer if he could afford to do so to keep the cattle, because they are necessary for the production of crops. "But with grain at a prohibitive price and labor higher than it has ever been known to be on the farm, it has become impossible for the farmer to maintain his herds of cows and when he does not get a fair price for the milk he is forced in many cases to sell his cattle. "This means not only a less quantity of milk produced each year, but it means that the farm grows less fertile. The farmer has to depend upon commercial fertilizer which does not contain all the elements that are necessary and which are to be found in natural fertilizer. The result is that the farm grows poorer and poorer and ultimately has to be sold or practically given away and it becomes an abandoned farm. "The only way to correct this tendency, which is fatal to the life of any country, is to make the keeping of cattle profitable. To this end the farmer should be paid more for his milk, and yet some means should be devised whereby the price could be lessened to the consumer. The milk contractor, who is the middleman between the farmer and the consumer, is the man who is reaping the profits at both ends. "If I am elected governor of this commonwealth I promise faithfully that legislation which will accomplish this result will be enacted."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS 28,262 CASES IN NATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—According to figures made public at the United States public health service yesterday there were 28,262 cases of infantile paralysis in the United States between July 1 and Sept. 25 of this year.

New York leads with a total of 7857 cases, while New York state, outside the metropolitan area, had 3338 cases. New Jersey came next with 3577 cases. Pennsylvania and Massachusetts reported more than 1000 cases each.

In the opinion of Dr. C. H. Lawrence of the public health service the epidemic is now under control.

FINDS PARALYSIS GERM

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Medical men showed keen interest when Dr. Edward C. Rosenow, of the bacteriological department of the Mayo foundation at Rochester, Minn., had finally succeeded in isolating the germ which, judging from the invariable results of many experiments, is the cause of infantile paralysis.

Dr. Rosenow, in his principal experiments, made in New York, was assisted by Dr. Edward B. Towne of Boston and Dr. George W. Wheeler of this city.

One very important result of Dr. Rosenow's work here during the past summer—he went back to Minnesota only a few days ago—was the discovery that invariably the germ which has been isolated was found in the tonsils of children suffering from infantile paralysis. The inference being that the tonsils play an important part in the contraction of the disease.

Naturally, the question has arisen, therefore, in medical minds since learning of Dr. Rosenow's discoveries whether or not the removal of the tonsils of children might not prevent infantile paralysis. Dr. Rosenow's experiments here showed that children suffering from poliomyelitis who were not making a good recovery showed striking improvements after the tonsils had been removed.

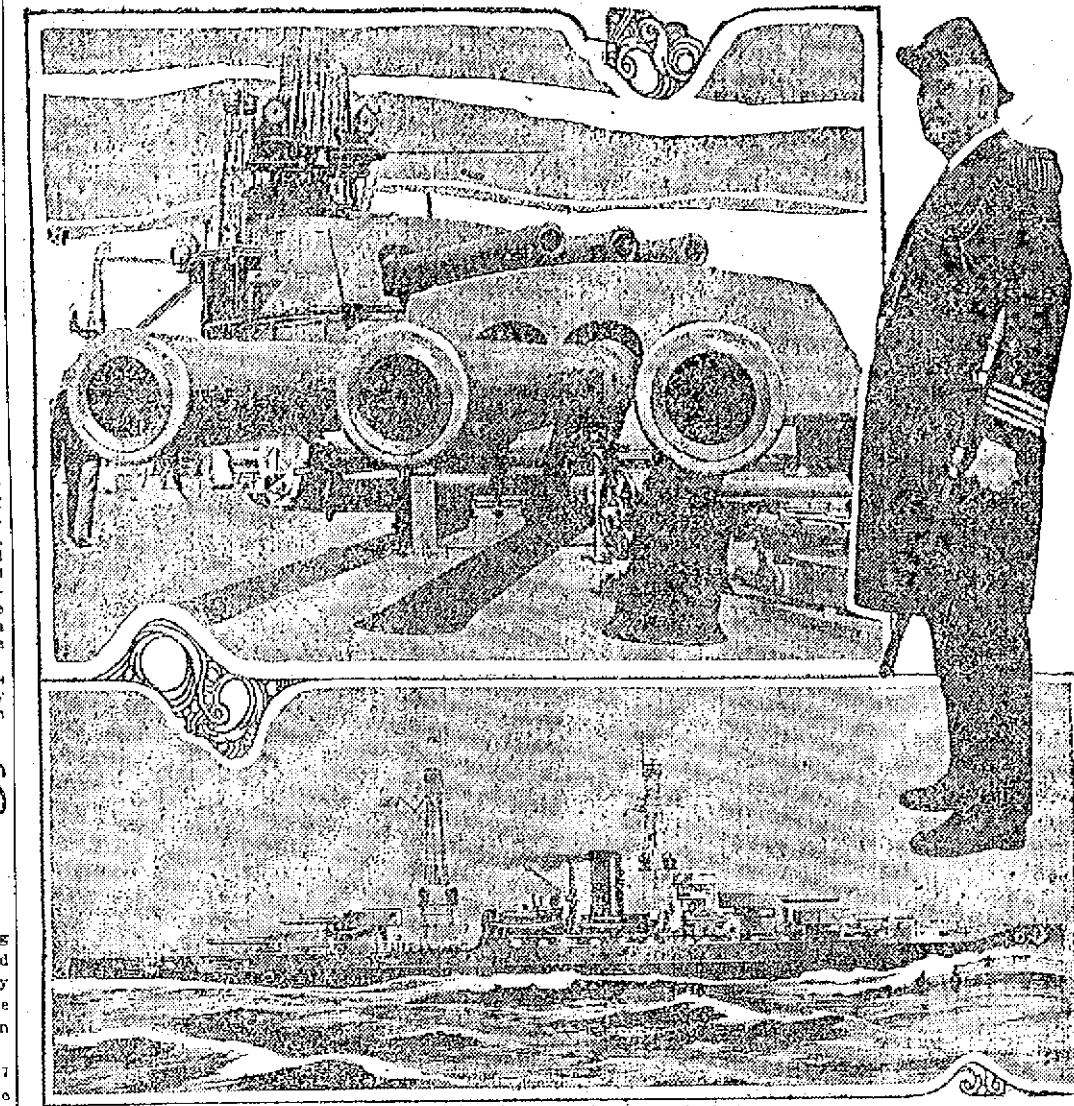

Of 121 cases of infantile paralysis treated at the New York hospital's branch hospital in East 59th street by Dr. Rosenow and his assistants there was only one child whose tonsils had been removed before infantile paralysis had been contracted, and in the case where the single patient had contracted the disease after the tonsils had been removed the child showed only a mild form of the disease and did not suffer from paralysis. But physicians believe, and doubtless Dr. Rosenow would agree with them if it were possible to get him to talk for publication on the subject—which he of course will not do—that a greater number than 121 cases would have to be observed before any hard and fast dictum should be pronounced on what is so important, before a general removal of tonsils from healthy children should be countenanced.

DEPUTIES OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH ELIMINATE APPEAL FOR HEALTH AND PROSPERITY OF EXECUTIVE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—The house of deputies of the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church yesterday voted to eliminate the special prayers for the president of the United States from the morning and evening prayer service and to substitute for them a prayer for the safety and preservation of the nation. The same prayer will be used in both services. As it is now in the prayer book the morning prayer asks for the president the boon, in health and prosperity long to him, and that he finally may attain everlasting joy and felicity. The new prayer as adopted for both services, while asking that the president "and all others in authority" be given "the wisdom and strength to know and to do Thy will" makes no reference to long life, health, prosperity or eternal felicity. The house also voted, despite vigorous protests, to omit the words "the governor of this state" from the evening prayer. It being argued that "all others in authority" included the governors. The change, which was adopted at the suggestion of the commission on prayer book, must be approved by the house of bishops and by the next general convention.

BATTLESHIP ARIZONA ENTERS SERVICE AS AMERICAN NAVY'S BIGGEST VESSEL

U.S.S. ARIZONA, BIG GUNS, CAPT. MCDONALD. © MCKINLEY-SMITH

The superdreadnaught Arizona, latest addition to the Atlantic fleet and one of the most powerful ships in the world, has just entered the service of Uncle Sam, fully manned and ready for action. This addition to the navy is far from a clear gain in strength, however, since it was necessary to strip three other battleships of their crews and place them in reserve to find a full complement of men for the new fighter.

The 311 men who make up the crew of the Arizona were drawn from the Vermont, the Kansas and the New Hampshire.

The Arizona was turned over to Capt. John D. McDonald with much ceremony. A marine guard stationed aft on the quarterdeck of the dreadnaught, now at anchor in the New York navy yard, presented arms, the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," the American flag was run up and the commission pennant was broken out upon the after truck. The Arizona then passed formally into the possession of the nation. Her keel was laid in 1914.

The new superdreadnaught, which was built in the New York navy yard, is 608 feet over all, has a displacement of 32,567 tons and is built for a cruising speed of twenty-one knots. Her main battery consists of twelve fourteen-inch guns similar to those shown in the picture. She carries forty-three officers in addition to the 311 men gathered from the three battleships that have gone into reserve, with seventy marines. She is commanded by Captain McDonald, with Lieutenant-Commander W. R. White as executive officer, and as engineer officer Commander S. H. R. Doyle, who built her machinery for her future internal actions.

An officer of the Arizona pointed out that the Arizona's twelve 14-inch guns throw 6000 pounds more to a broadside than was contained in the combined broadsides of the Kansas, Vermont and New Hampshire. The Arizona's broadside weighs about ten tons and can be hurled about twenty miles. The other three ships combined carried twelve 12-inch guns in their main batteries.

"The Arizona is too big and important to risk a chance with a green crew," said one of the Arizona's officers. "The only sensible thing to do was to give us a trained crew and the only place to get these was out of the active fleet."

The Connecticut, the sole remaining vessel of the pre-dreadnaught type now in the Atlantic fleet, is destined to go in the reserve as the fleet has been reorganized so far as its first fighting line is concerned, into an all-dreadnaught fleet. When the Idaho and Mississippi go into commission next year there will be 13 vessels of the dreadnaught class in the four active battle divisions of the fleet.

Scheme to Buy at Wholesale Price to Be Explained by Miss Carolyn Putnam Webber

A class in household management and co-operative buying is being planned by the People's club and the first meeting of the class will be held Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 1, at 3.30 o'clock, at which time Miss Carolyn Putnam Webber will give lectures on apportionment of incomes, food values, nutrition of foods, planning of menus, marketing and buying.

The plan of the class is to buy groceries in large quantities and at wholesale prices. For example, 100 members of a class order 300 pounds of staple grocery and each takes five pounds. In this manner the wholesale price with one delivery and a cash sale will be lower for each pound than when purchased in small quantities at the smaller store. This plan has been successfully carried out in other cities and has proven very profitable to the members of the classes.

Any housekeeper wishing to join can learn details regarding dates, amount of enrollment fee and all details by calling at the People's club rooms any evening between 7.30 and 9 o'clock.

An early enrollment is advised, as plans are being developed for this class and the first of November is planned for the initial lecture. Regular attendance each Wednesday for eight weeks will be necessary to make it profitable, and the sole purpose of the club is to help the Lowell housekeeper manage a home and feeding a family on a moderate income or allowance.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. cancelled today all its sailings of steamers to an indefinite period. A week ago it was announced that the company intended to resume service between New York, Colon and Cartagena, Spain. The reason for cancellation is understood to be that the British government again has requisitioned the company's steamships. All of them were taken over by the government early in the war, but recently two of them were released.

GREAT BRITAIN AWAITS OUR ACT ON U-53

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The British government will not make any official representation to the United States concerning the German submarine U-53 pending an announcement of its attitude by the American government, said Viscount Grey, secretary of state for foreign affairs, in the house of lords yesterday.

In a reply to a question concerning the attitude of the United States toward British patrols, Viscount Grey said that the United States admitted that British ships were not exceeding their legal rights under international law, but that the American government complained of their presence on the ground of the irritation which the continued presence of belligerent warships off the coast of the United States naturally caused in a neutral country.

He declared that the United States had requested Great Britain very emphatically not to patrol off its coast, and said that instructions were sent to the British ships there to avoid causing any unnecessary irritation and to comply as far as possible with the American request.

Action of American Warships

"With regard to the U-53," the foreign secretary continued, "we do not know what steps were taken by the United States for patrolling its waters or in regard to her coming into port and securing information from newspapers."

"We do not know whether it is true that American warships are out of the submarine's way. That is a matter for the American government only, and we assume that government is making full inquiries."

"We also assume it will announce its attitude in due course; pending that, we do not propose to make any official representation on the subject of the submarine."

The question concerning the German submarine raid in American waters was raised by Baron Charles Beresford, former commander of the British home fleet; Earl Grey, former governor-general of Canada, and others.

Baron Beresford asked whether British cruisers were removed from American waters owing to American objections and, if so, what steps the government proposed for the protection of British vessels. He criticised the submarine reply as at least curt and said the American ideas of neutrality were curious.

U. S. Protest on British Patrol

Earl Grey wanted an assurance that the report that American commanders of destroyers had acceded to the request of the German submarine commander to clear out of the way and give room to blow up ships was untrue.

The foreign secretary in reply to Lord Beresford's question read a summary on what passed between the United States government and the British government on this subject since the war began and what the British understand the view of the United States government to be.

He recalled that on Sept. 14, 1915, the British ambassador telegraphed that the United States authorities had intercepted wireless communications from the German cruiser Sudetok to New York asking for supplies and newspapers, and he informed us that the United States government considered that this would be making use of United States territory as a base for supplies and information as to shipping movements through the newspapers.

Viscount Grey said the proceeding was not repeated and no official protest was received, so far as he is aware.

KILLED MAN TO SAVE HIS OWN LIFE

MURDERER TESTIFIES THAT LAWYER FORCED HIM TO KILL MICHAEL GAIMARI

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Caetano Montemagno, who shot and killed Michael Gaimari on March 8, 1914, testifying yesterday at the trial here of Michael Rofrano, a lawyer, accused of complicity in his crime, declared Rofrano not only was the instigator of the murder, but he forced him that unless he killed Gaimari he would "die the way we want you to kill him."

Rofrano at the time was deputy street cleaning commissioner of New York.

On the night of the murder Montemagno said he was accompanied by John Brandini, one of Rofrano's alleged lieutenants, who pointed out Gaimari to him and told him to shoot. Brandini tipped his hat to Gaimari from the opposite side of the street, and when the latter acknowledged the greeting, Montemagno shot him, he testified.

"I ran into a saloon after I shot Gaimari," asserted Montemagno, "and asked for a drink. I don't remember whether it was wine or beer. I did not drink."

Montemagno said he told Rofrano he did not want to stay in jail and that Rofrano replied if he was not sure he

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

If little stomach is sour, liver torpid or bowels clogged

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach sour. When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can't cause injury. No difference what all your trouble—full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remembrance, "inside" first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." It is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

SPECIAL PRAYERS FOR PRESIDENT DROPPED

DEPUTIES OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH ELIMINATE APPEAL FOR HEALTH AND PROSPERITY OF EXECUTIVE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—The house of deputies of the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church yesterday voted to eliminate the special prayers for the president of the United States from the morning and evening prayer service and to substitute for them a prayer for the safety and preservation of the nation. The same prayer will be used in both services. As it is now in the prayer book the morning prayer asks for the president the boon, in health and prosperity long to him, and that he finally may attain everlasting joy and felicity. The new prayer as adopted for both services, while asking that the president "and all others in authority" be given "the wisdom and strength to know and to do Thy will" makes no reference to long life, health, prosperity or eternal felicity. The house also voted, despite vigorous protests, to omit the words "the governor of this state" from the evening prayer. It being argued that "all others in authority" included the governors. The change, which was adopted at the suggestion of the commission on prayer book, must be approved by the house of bishops and by the next general convention.

APPETITE AND HEALTH

Loss of appetite is a sure sign of ill health.

Those who take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People as a tonic invariably say that their improvement began with a noticeable increase in the appetite. When you are sick and your vitality is low your appetite fails. Nothing tastes good. You take no pleasure in your meals. Under such circumstances good digestion is impossible.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills tone up the entire system, the blood is enriched and a good red blood is essential to normal digestion. The glands that secrete the digestive fluids are strengthened, not merely stimulated, and you once more enjoy a good appetite. Looking forward pleasantly to meal-time is the first sign of returning health, strength and vitality.

What to eat then becomes a problem and it is solved by the diet book that the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send you on request. It gives the relative digestibility of different foods, gives the proper diet for various diseases and is a handy book to have.

The price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is fifty cents per box. Your own druggist sells them or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price.
